Guerrillas Hit 4 Compounds South of DMZ

Attackers Enter South Vietnamese Area, 40 Killed

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong guerrillas unleashed coordinated attacks against four South Vietnamese army compounds in sensitive Quang Tri Province just below the demilitarized zone today.

The attackers penetrated the defense line of the compound at Trieu Phong two miles northwest of Quang Tri City and inflicted heavy casualties on the 100 defenders. Two Australian advisers were wounded.

Forty-one Viet Cong dead were counted outside two of the attacked posts.

South Vietnamese troops sustained light casualties at the La Vang compound two miles south of Quang Tri City and at the Hai

U.S. Warplanes Hit Hanoi Again

TOKYO (AP) — Radio Hanoi said U.S. planes attacked Hanoi again today. Without detailing targets, it said North Vietnamese defense forces shot down seven planes and captured several pilots.

Independent confirmation was lacking.

Lang compound five miles southeast of the town. Communist gunners lobbed a number of mortar rounds at the Quang Tri sector compound but scored no damaging hits.

U.S. pilots ranged over North Vietnam Friday on 150 strike missions, shaking off several Communist MIG interceptors and a barrage of surface-to-air missiles.

In the most dramatic raid U.S. Air Force jets scored four direct hits on the Doumer Bridge 1.7 miles from the center of Hanoi, and dropped the center span into the Red River. The mile-long bridge carries all rail traffic out of Hanoi bound for Red China.

North Vietnam, meanwhile, charged that U.S. planes attacked residential quarters in the heart of Hanoi Friday and hit the city's outskirts in a "new and extremely serious escalation" of the Vietnam War.

Navy pilots from the carrier Constellation hammered two giant Communist bridges in the Phu Ly area, 35 miles south of Hanoi.

Debris Up to His Chest

Boy, 15, Trapped in Deep Well Overnight

LENORE, W.Va. (AP) — A second cave-in shortly before 6 a.m. buried 15-year-old Leonard Boyce up to his chest again just as rescue workers about freed him from a 13-hour entrapment in a well.

After rushing in heavy earth moving equipment, workers dug a deep trench and had Boyce free except for one leg and a foot when the second cave-in occurred.

Sheriff Steve Adkins, among some 40 workers who have toiled through the night to rescue the boy, said "it looks like another four hours at this point."

Workers had to progress slowly in clearing rocks and dirt from around the youth because of the danger of more falling rock. A temporary wooden hood was constructed over his head to protect him from rocks.

Authorities also sent for a physician because they said the boy was nearing the point of exhaustion. He kept pleading from his entrapment 14 feet underground: "Tell them don't stop."

He was buried in rock from his knees to his chest at 5:15 p.m. Friday.

Boyer, of nearby Parsley's Bottom, a small mountain community near this southwestern West Virginia community, was fed hot chocolate through a rubber tube as the lad shivered through the night.

He was trapped while trying to inspect the well for cleaning. It is in the sloping front yard of a house owned by Willard Howell.

Workers reached Boyce today by digging a trench alongside the well's casing. But more rock began falling on the boy after a small hole was dug through the side of the well for rescuers to reach his head.

Operations then were halted

Ban Against Arms Spread May Result

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief U.S. disarmament negotiator William C. Foster heads for Geneva today to open a new and promising chapter in the bid for a treaty barring the spread of nuclear weapons.

Word the Soviets were ready to present a joint U.S.-Soviet draft treaty at the 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference came Friday from Ambassador Foster after he met with President Johnson.

Official U.S. sources said it all goes well in the new talks, the nuclear nonproliferation treaty may be ready in late October for submission at the U.N. General Assembly's fall session.

Final Details Foster, who left Geneva only last Wednesday for Senate testimony here, promptly booked a return flight to Geneva to work out final details with his Soviet counterpart at the disarmament conference, Alexei Roschin.

On-and-off negotiations for the pact began in April 1965. The forthcoming U.S.-Soviet proposal will be open at Geneva for modification by other nations at the disarmament conference before a final version is agreed on.

Official U.S. sources said the atomic have-not nations doubtless will want changes from the probable U.S.-Soviet wording.

The proposed treaty combines pledges by the nuclear powers, on the one hand, not to give atomic arms to others; and by the non-nuclear powers, on the other hand, not to acquire such weapons.

Washington and Moscow left blank for the time being the treaty's provision for safeguards against violations.

That's mainly because the Soviets want a worldwide system of inspections against any cheating by the have-nots, while Western Europeans prefer to continue with the inspection system installed under their program for peaceful uses of nuclear energy.

From the U.S. standpoint, larger problems remain to be thrashed out and there is considerable uncertainty about what the have-not countries will accept.

The two nuclear super powers already have parallel policies against handing their atomic arms to third parties. But with France and Red China building their own atomic arsenals, pressure has been growing in have-not nations against giving up permanently future national rights to nuclear arms.

Try Hands-on-Head Race And See Who's the Fastest

By CAPPY DICK

Running is helped by the swinging of your arms. Your arm movement maintains your balance and helps lengthen your stride.

When you run with your hands clasped together behind your head as the boy and girl are doing in the picture, the use of your arms is almost entirely eliminated and running is more difficult.

As a consequence, a runner who normally is so swift he wins most foot races in his crowd may be slowed down considerably by the elimination of his usual arm movements. Furthermore, it is just possible that a runner who never has been suspected of possessing great speed will turn out to be the winner of this handicap race.

No Arm Swinging

Promote a race of this type at your next picnic or the next time you and your friends go hiking into the country. You'll find it adds fun to the old sport of foot racing.

Monday. Lots more good fun for every boy and girl!

'Classic' U.S. Comics Due in Eastern Europe

American Publisher Sells Rights to Films in Yugoslavia

NEW YORK (AP) — The American publisher who combined comics and classics is about to export his versions of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "Huckleberry Finn" and other stories to Yugoslavia. Albert Kander, president of Gilbertson Co., Inc., publisher of Classics Illustrated, said they would be the first American comic books in Eastern Europe.

Jovan Milenkovic of Belgrade will print and distribute the editions, he said. Plans call for printing one million copies this fall, accompanied by serialization in Yugoslavian newspapers.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has criticized the inclusion of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "Huckleberry Finn."

Stereotyped Portrayal

"I just don't understand why they would want to send these books to a Communist country as representative of the United States," said Miss June Shagolov, NAACP national education director. "They portray Negroes in a stereotyped way and perpetuate certain prejudices."

Kander said the selection from Classics Illustrated's list of 167 titles was made by the Yugoslavian publisher, who also chose "The Three Musketeers," "The Last of the Mohicans," "Moby Dick," "Song of Hiawatha," "Wild Bill Hickock," "Les Miserables," "Adventures of Cellini," "Robin Hood" and "The Jungle Book."

"They're all classics," he said. "We send them what they ask for. I don't know how they choose them. The classics are the classics. They are respected as such rather than as propaganda."

Kander estimated 1.5 billion copies of his abbreviated comic strip versions have been sold in 32 languages in the past 27 years. "In all that time, we never have had any one in any country say 'We'll take everything on the list—except this one,'" Kander said.

U.S.I.A. Libraries

Both "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "Huckleberry Finn" are available in regular book form at U.S. Information Agency libraries around the world, the U.S.I.A. reports.

Classics Illustrated have been printed in Warsaw since 1963—but not for the Poles. A Polish firm prints them in Finnish, Norwegian, Swedish, Danish, Dutch and German.

When former Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev visited the United Nations, there were negotiations for Russian editions.

"There was a big to do but it was all gas," Kander said. "They wouldn't put up the money and all we heard was 'Nyet.'"

Kanter, who is the father of Hollywood director Hal Kanter, said he went into the comic book business because "my kids were reading comics and wouldn't touch the classics, so I combined the two."

Junior Line

Now Kanter has nine grandchildren, and his firm has added a junior line, including "Snow White" and "Paul Bunyan," said Kanter. "They go with pabulum," said Kanter. "They are fed to children from infancy."

Now, he says, "we get letters like one last week. It said: 'Dear Mr. Gilbertson. I like the Last of the Mohicans very much. Why don't you have Mr. Cooper write some more?'"

Confiscated Booze Keeps Residents of Old Folks Home Happy

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Contraband booze seized by police in raids on unlicensed taverns is keeping the bar bill low at four old folks homes.

Last month, said the police journal, police delivered 18 cases of liquor, 36 cases of wine and 109 cases of beer to the homes.

A spokesman for the Masonic Home of Missouri said the confiscated liquor is delivered twice a year and "issued by our St. had a bump on the head medical director to those who need it." He said the average age of the residents was 82.

Others receiving the medical spirits are the Jewish Center for the Aged and two homes operated by the Little Sisters of the Poor.

Girl Reports Beating Near Bear Creek

18-Year-Old Gave Ride to Man From Tavern in Shiocton

An 18-year-old, route 1, Bear Creek girl was taken by her parents to a doctor early this morning for treatment of bumps and bruises she said she suffered when she was beaten, on a back road near Sugar Bush, by a man she was taking home.

New London police notified the Outagamie County Sheriff's Department at 4:27 a.m. today that the girl had driven to the police station.

Questioned at the station, she said she had been at a Shiocton area tavern from about 11:30 p.m. Friday. She left the tavern early this morning with a 21-year-old New London man who had asked for a ride home because he did not have a driver's license.

The girl said her passenger became violent as she was driving on a back road, which she described as a short cut, in the northern part of the county.

She told police the next thing she remembers is walking up to a New London clinic, then driving to the New London police station.

Investigation is continuing.

Mastectomy May Start Circulation Trouble

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I had a mastectomy (removal of breast), nine months ago and I am doing fine except that my arm swells down to the fingertips, some-days more than others. Do you know of any therapy for this? — Mrs. F.L.

The tissues undergo a good deal of unavoidable shock in this type of operation and lymph glands and some blood vessels have to be removed.

The result is impairment of the circulation in the shoulder area. This leads to fluid retention in the arm — edema. And a few words of advice to us who have gone through surgical menopause. Many of us are rather young and find it very difficult to adjust to these sudden changes which older women can accept gradually. — M.H.

This problem (surgical menopause) is included in my booklet, "Make Menopause Easier." A copy will be sent to you in return for 25 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Carry things with that arm. Reach with it. Exercise with it. You have a natural tendency to favor that arm, but use is the one thing that will strengthen it and gradually bring the swelling under control. Physiotherapy and the use of long elastic sleeve help to control this.

Patients having this surgery should be warned of this, and I think most of them are. But experience tells us that it is very difficult to make patients realize how truly important it is to keep that arm active instead of favoring it.

I can understand your reluctance to use the arm — but your own well-being depends on forcing yourself to use it.

Dear Dr. Molner: Much is written about the menopause, in your column and other medical articles, but would you offer a few words of advice to us who have gone through surgical menopause. Many of us are rather young and find it very

NOT coming from the ovaries. And gradually the body adjusts to the new level of hormone production.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a relative who plays rough with the baby and throws it up in the air and catches it. Is this good for the baby? — Mrs. G.E.

I don't care much for this kind of playing with the baby mainly because of the danger of (1) frightening the baby; (2) dropping the child; (3) bumping the baby's head; (4) not quite dropping the baby, but perhaps catching the baby by an arm and straining or dislocating it.

Troubled with varicose veins? To make sure you are doing all you can to relieve the problem write to Dr. Molner in care of The Post-Crescent, requesting the booklet, "How To Deal With Varicose Veins," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover the cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Legislators Advise Refusal of Waiver

Proposal Would Amend Tax Law To Aid Agricultural Land

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The uniformity of taxation rule that has been a part of the state constitution since it was written should not be waived on behalf of agricultural and undeveloped land, the legislature has been advised by its joint survey committee on tax exemptions.

Faulty Steering Gear Blamed in Clintonville Crash

CLINTONVILLE — A mechanical failure in the steering mechanism of a car caused an accident at 7:40 a.m. Friday resulting in an estimated $500 in property damage, police said.

Driver of the car, Myrtle Kutchenrter, 20, route 1, Clintonville, was not injured.

Patrolman Dan Arrowood of the Waupaca County Traffic Patrol, who investigated, reported that Miss Kutchenrter was driving towards Clintonville on a town road off County Trunk Y, when she suddenly was unable to steer the car. The left front portion of the car struck a service pole and knocked it off as the car left the road and hit the ditch.

When the wrecker came, an inspection was made and it was found that a tie rod end, a part of the steering mechanism, had become disengaged.

Trial Date Set For Woman on Conduct Count

An alleged disturbance with a neighbor July 26 resulted in a disorderly conduct charge against Mrs. Beth Mitchell, 44, route 1, Kaukauna.

Mrs. Mitchell pleaded innocent of the charge in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Friday afternoon, and Judge Gustave J. Keller set trial for 2:30 p.m. Monday. He set bond at $40.

The complaint against Mrs. Mitchell was brought by Rose Garcia.

Price of Beef Soars During Competition

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Attendance was low, but the price of beef was way up Friday as the 117th annual Wisconsin State Fair opened its gates for a 10-day run.

Some 43,024 persons paid their way into the exposition by the time the gates closed Friday night. Fair Administrator Vernon G. Wendland blamed chilly temperatures for the 12,368 person drop from last year's opening day.

Wendland still expressed hope that the fair would surpass million mark this year for the first time, but he admitted concern over cool evenings. Last year's 10-day run drew a record 985,296 persons.

Only 2,623 persons cared to sit still long enough to take in the country-western jam boree grandstand show Friday night. Fair officials said 9,406 turned out on opening day last year for the grandstand show.

Knowles Takes Part
One of those who showed up at the fair was Gov. Warren Knowles, and he had a hand in boosting the price of beef to record levels.

Park Shelter In Fremont Not Reserved

Chamber Declares Facilities Meted on 'First Come' Basis

FREMONT — The village shelter at the Wolf River Crossing Park here is for the use of those who arrive at the site first, according to Chamber of Commerce members. A review of the first-come first-serve attitude was aired following a complaint that someone recently had placed reserved signs on the tables and the shelter.

A family of four from Merrill had stopped at the park Sunday to wait for another car of friends with whom they had intended to picnic. Finding the reserved signs they voiced complaint and Chamber of Commerce members inquiring into the matter found that such a problem had never occurred before. As the reservation trend could undo the area promotion which the Chamber is emphasizing, they will send a letter of apology to the Merrill family.

Four large road signs advertising the Fremont area will be repaired and repainted. They are located at each of the village limits, near Oshkosh and on U.S. 45.

The planning of the September fall festival will be completed at a meeting of the board of directors and the activities committee Aug. 15. Committees will also be appointed to plan the fall stag party at the Wolf River Crossing Park for members and guests.

The sponsoring of a booth at the Chicago National Boat and Travel Outdoor Show next spring will be discussed at the September meeting.

Control Tower Work at Port Delayed

OSHKOSH — Plans for the new control tower at Winnebago County Airport have been temporarily held up because of uncertainty of federal funds.

Supv. Alvin Staffeld, Neenah, chairman of the Aviation Committee, said Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) officials reported they do not know how much federal money will be available for the project and have recommended the county postpone its plans until more information is available.

The new tower, expected to cost in excess of $330,000, is needed before the new north-south runway can be opened for use. The present tower is located in the approach to the new runway.

Tentative approval was given the Oshkosh Area Chamber of Commerce to set up an industrial display on airport grounds Sept. 21-23 for "Wonderful Wisconsin Week."

Byrnes Refuses Guess on Surtax

BY FRANCES McKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Although Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, has warned about spiraling national deficit figures since January, 1966, he won't hazard a guess as to whether the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee will approve President Johnson's suggested 10 per cent surtax increase.

"The President is facing up to the hard and inescapable facts awfully late in the game," Byrnes commented.

Byrnes, the top Republican on the influential committee, added that only time will tell just what will be done about the increase.

Opposition Gains
Washington observations show that opposition to the tax has gained momentum among both Republicans and Democrats in the Congress, and is indicated in protests in mail from Congressmen's constituents.

Johnson has predicted a possible $28 billion national deficit by the end of June next year, unless Congress approves the surtax.

Otherwise, the President has said, the deficit would cause a "spiral of ruinous inflation, brutally higher interest rates, tight money, an unequal distribution of the cost of supporting the war in Vietnam and a deterioration in our balance of payments."

Byrnes Predicts
In January, 1966, Byrnes said, "the dilemma confronting the Administration is either to cut back the Great Society spending or continue it and incur deficits which could lead to a dangerously expanded economy with inflation sending the cost of living sky-high."

No Simple Problem Scenery-Marring Junk Cars To be Early Target of Council

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The problems of automobile salvage and "the junk cars that litter the landscape" may become early targets of the newly established Wisconsin Council on Natural Beauty.

The council will hold a public discussion with public participation invited, on the issue of auto salvage and its relation to protection of the natural beauty of the Wisconsin, outdoors at the state capitol on Aug. 29, says Delbert J. Cook, coordinator of the new agency. A permanent chief officer has not yet been hired.

Oswald Johnson, mayor of Black River Falls, is the chairman of the committee that has proposed a review of the auto salvage problem with respect to its public aspects.

Representatives Invited
Cook said the council is aware that the problem is not a simple one to resolve, and that therefore it has invited representatives of the scrap industry, auto wreckers groups, the body compacting business, state licensing departments, legislators and local government officials to attend the discussion session.

Matters expected to be reviewed include junk car inventory and distribution ordinances, collection points, transport, conversion procedures and costs, licensing and the role of the manufacturer, among others.

Meanwhile the State Highway Department with the assistance of federal funds has begun a program this summer to conceal auto junk yards on major highway routes through the planting of trees and shrubs.

Judge Appoints Attorneys for Two Indigents

Youths in Jail Pending Hearing on Armed Robbery

Two state reformatory inmates who allegedly took part in a $300 armed robbery at an Appleton service station last month, had attorneys appointed for them when they were arraigned Friday afternoon in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Clarence Storzer, 17, and Robert J. Zdiarstek, 18, both of Green Bay, had their cases continued to Tuesday afternoon.

Find Indigent
Judge Gustave J. Keller, after finding the youths indigent, named attorney John Kellogg to represent Storzer and Don Jury for Zdiarstek. The youths are alleged to have participated with Carl F. Benishek, 22, Green Bay, in the July 10 robbery of the Bulko Service Station, 1608 E. Wisconsin Ave. Benishek, who also has a court-appointed attorney, pleaded innocent of armed robbery after he was bound over to Circuit Court. His trial is Sept. 7.

Men Jailed
Judge Keller Friday ordered both Storzer and Zdiarstek held in the county jail rather than be returned to the state reformatory at Green Bay.

Storzer, who was waived from juvenile court Aug. 7, said Friday he is serving a reformatory term until he is 21. By County Corporation Counsel Zdiarstek said he is in the reformatory on parole revocation and explained he originally was sentenced from Brown County court.

County Again Denies Discrimination Charge

OSHKOSH — In a formal filing with the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA), Winnebago County has derided it has discriminated against William Brennan.

Brennan, whose private airstrip is being taken by the county for airport expansion, filed a complaint of discrimination with the FAA against the county after failing to reach an agreement for moving his operation onto the county field.

The FAA is conducting an investigation into the charge and held two hearings in June.

Six exhibits plus a statement of the county's position are contained in the brief prepared by County Corporation Counsel Gerald Engeldinger.

The exhibits include a copy of the original airport standards, based on Brown County's adopted by the committee in May, 1966; a copy of a letter from the FAA to Brown County ruling the standards too restrictive; a copy of the new airport standards; minutes of negotiations conducted with Brennan; a copy of a lease proposed by Brennan and a copy of the county's lease with Warren Basler who operates on the county field.

The brief maintains that the discrimination charge is "false and without foundation" and that the county has the right to establish reasonable standards for operation of the airport.

Engeldinger also told the FAA their request for a written statement of the county's position was a "peculiar approach since the county made its position clear in meetings in June and July and was told at that time a written record was not needed."

Couple Dies Of Poisoning In Oshkosh

Coroner Tentatively Rules Deaths Result Of Double Suicide

OSHKOSH — An Oshkosh man and an Oshkosh woman died Thursday night, apparently of arsenic poisoning or drugs. Their deaths have tentatively been ruled a double suicide.

John A. Wilson, 320 Merritt Ave., died as he was being rushed to Mercy Hospital by Moore Ambulance. Mrs. Doris Kjemhus, 39, of 690A N. Main St., died shortly after she arrived at the hospital.

Just before he died, Wilson told an Oshkosh policeman, who found the pair lying on a bed in the downtown apartment of a friend, that they had taken arsenic. Police found a partially empty can of weed killer containing arsenic in the apartment. They also found three bottles of pills in Mrs. Kjemhus' purse.

County Coroner Art C. Miller said either the arsenic or the pills could have killed the pair. He tentatively ruled the deaths a double suicide, pending the results of blood tests from the State Crime Laboratory at Madison.

The man who lived in the apartment, Fred James, 13A Waugoo St., told police the couple had been at his apartment for most of the day and had been drinking for a long time. He said he went out to buy more beer about 11 p.m. Thursday and found them when he returned to his apartment about 11:30 p.m.

Orbison Named to Co-Chairman Post

Will Help Direct United Givers '67-68 Drive

F. Harwood Orbison, 120 River Court, a veteran Red Feather campaigner, has been named co-chairman of the 1967-68 United Givers drive.

The president of Appleton Mills, who served as campaign chairman in 1956, and co-chairman in 1955, will be working closely with Cyrus Rachle, general chairman.

Orbison is familiar with the four agencies, which previously had solicited funds independently. They are Family Service Association of the Fox Valley, Inc., Outagamie Association for Retarded Children, Sheltered Activity Center and Wisconsin Welfare Council.

Added last year were the Outagamie Chapter of the American Red Cross and the Mental Health Association of Outagamie County.

Orbison was re-introduced to the UCS board of directors at a special meeting at the Conway Motor Hotel Thursday noon. He had been a member of the board from 1956 through 1964.

In an interview Orbison said, "It was really a thrill to sit in a hard-working meeting and see a board of Appleton volunteer citizens do the job honestly and equitably it was appointed to do."

The UCS board met in a three-hour special session to review agency budgets as recommended by the year-around budget committee. The committee has been meeting with Red Feather agencies for the past two months.

John Torinus, UCS president, said he expects the board to set the United Givers goal at a meeting next Thursday noon.

Long-Distance Runs Resumed By Proxmire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., easily the best long distance runner in the U.S. Senate and perhaps the most physically fit of the senators, said he has overcome a painful case of shin splints and is running again.

Proxmire, 51, was running a total of 10 miles a day, to and from his office, when the shin splints occurred.

He began swimming two miles a day instead of running.

Then, he received some advice from Paul Dale, a cross country runner at La Crosse State University.

Dale suggested that Proxmire bandage both ankles tightly and apply liniment to his legs before running. He also advised that the senator warm up three or four minutes before beginning the runs.

Proxmire, who used to run without a warmup, said Thursday the suggestions have done the trick.

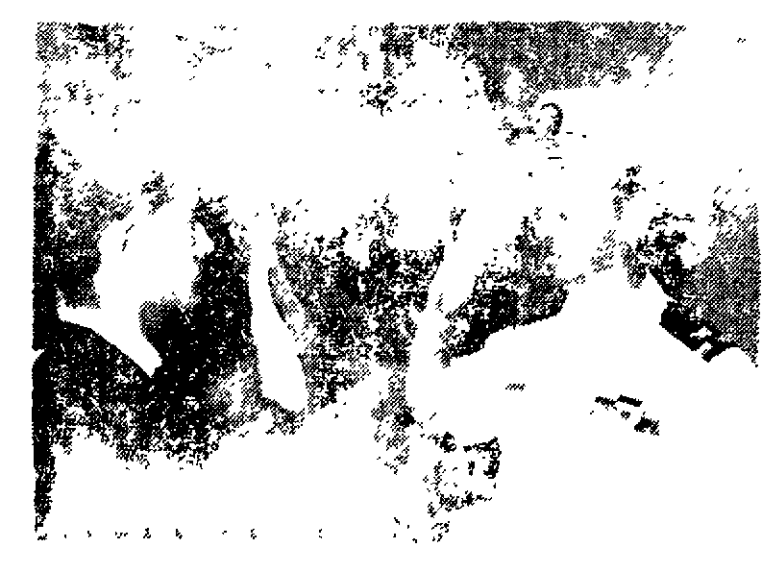

Besides running and swimming, Proxmire keeps in shape by doing 300 pushups a day and situps, leg lifts, flutter kicks and isometric exercises.

Man Wants to Jump From Television Tower, Gets Caught in Sign

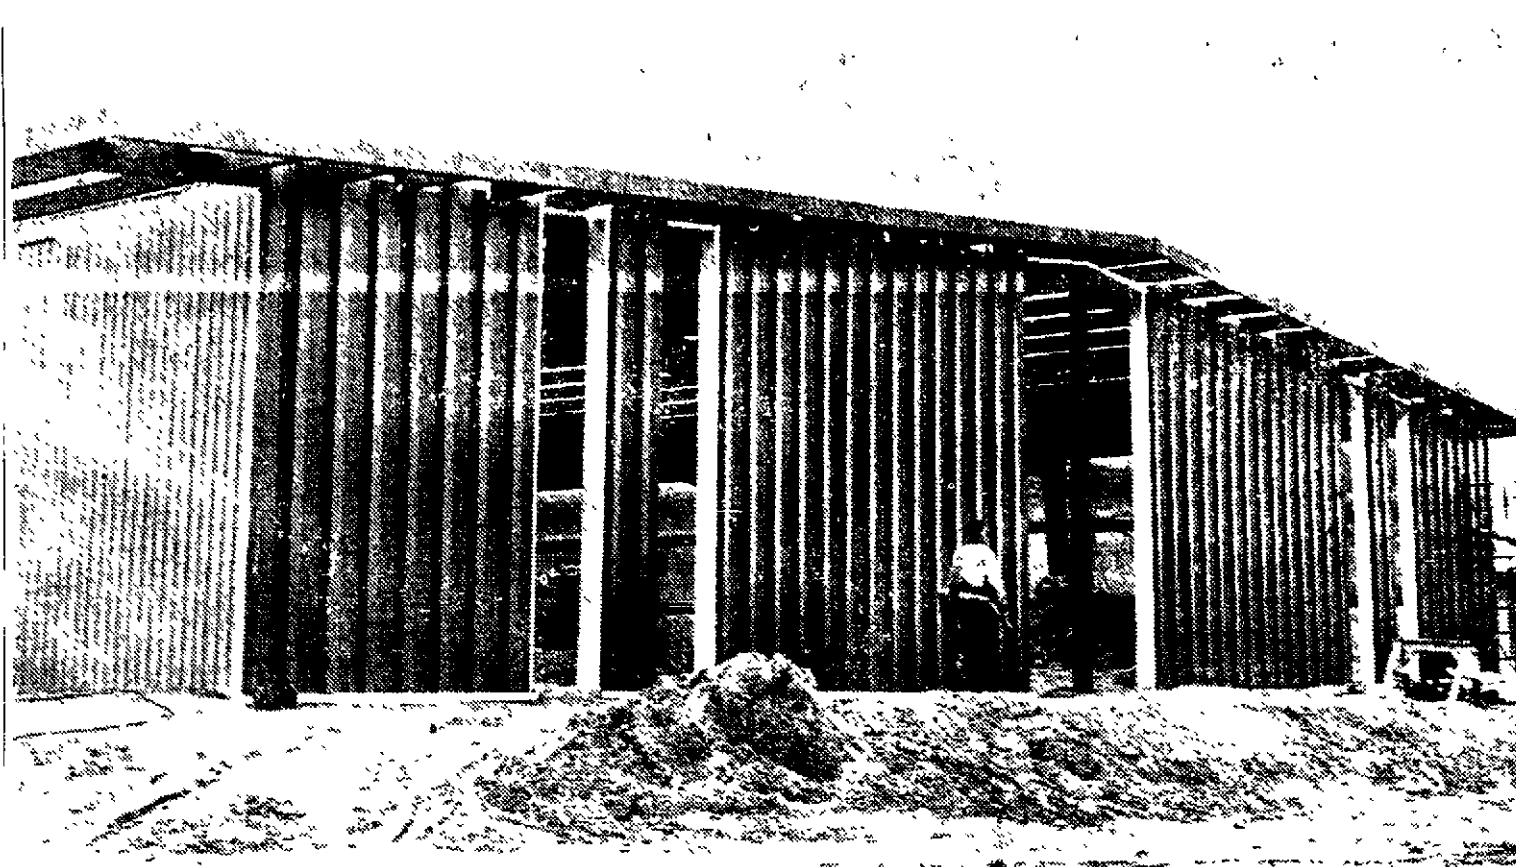

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Police say a 42-year-old man who climbed a 20-foot television tower and became trapped in the huge station call letters atop it was booked for prowling after being rescued by fire officials Thursday night.

Officials said John Robert Stewart climbed the KTLA tower on Sunset Boulevard. A rescue unit lifted a ladder to him and when the man became entangled in the letters, firemen grabbed him.

Police said Stewart was sitting on a tower crossbar for more than an hour threatening to jump and that his estranged wife Janet, in her 20s, was unable to convince him to come down.

Seek Approval Of Regional Mail Center

Plans Must Mesh With Construction of Terminal Addition

BY DON CASTONIA

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — Speedy approval of plans for the proposed regional postal center at Winnebago County Airport was urged Thursday night by postal officials.

At the urging of R. W. Van Sickle, from the Post Office Department regional real estate office in Milwaukee, the county board's Aviation Committee authorized Airport Mgr. S. J. Wittman and Drake Rowe, architect for the proposed new terminal, to meet with postal officials in Washington Monday.

Van Sickle and Oshkosh Postmaster Ray Novotny conferred with Rowe and Roland Kohlbeck, consultants from Howard, Needles, Tammen and Bergendoff, Thursday night on plans for location of the facility.

Van Sickle presented plans for a structure 362 feet by 254 feet which would be located about 200 feet south of 20th Avenue and 80 feet east of Michigan Street, just east of the proposed terminal complex.

The layout of the structure varied from that proposed by the county's consulting firm only in location of some parking area and loading dock space. This is expected to be worked out in Washington Monday.

Negotiations County Corporation Counsel Gerald Engeldinger had suggested the lease for the land be negotiated before going ahead with plans for the building, but Van Sickle said the Post Office Department did not want to negotiate until they were sure the site utilization plans met with county approval.

Van Sickle said speed is necessary because "the situation here (Oshkosh) is very acute." Oshkosh serves as the regional postal center for 55 area post offices and the space situation at the downtown post office has been termed critical.

The planned facility at the airport would serve as the regional distribution center and would enable some mail to bypass the Chicago post office.

There has been no indication as to how receptive the Post Office Department will be to proposed lease terms on the land. The department has indicated it wants a 30 year lease with eight additional five-year renewal options without renegotiation clauses. A figure of one cent per square foot was mentioned.

In a preliminary lease proposal discussed by the committee, Engeldinger suggested a lease starting at one cent per square foot, automatically increasing one-half cent every three years to 5½ cents at the end of 30 years.

The lease would then be renegotiated for every renewal period with the rent never to be less than it was for the preceding period.

Plans for the new terminal, which has been estimated at $1 million will be presented to the county board Tuesday morning and, if sufficient information is available, a presentation also will be made on the postal facility.

Political Query Costs Representative $5,400

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — In addition to questions on Vietnam, government spending and other subjects, Rep. Charles M. Teague asked in a poll of his constituents, "Whom would you like to see president?" So, the Republican said, the Post Office Department ruled that the political query, on voided his use of his franking privilege and it required him to pay $5,462.50 for the 190,000 pieces of mail.

Before House of Representatives

Standing Committee on Urban Affairs Backed In Steiger Legislation

WASHINGTON — Congressman William A. Steiger introduced legislation Thursday that would establish a Standing Committee on Urban Affairs in the U. S. House of Representatives.

"The recent riots in our nation's cities are a challenge to the Congress to supply greater initiative and more effective oversight of our federal urban programs," the Congressman said.

The Congressman noted that eight separate standing committees of the House now share jurisdiction over urban programs. They are the Committees on Agriculture (food stamps), Banking and Currency (housing and urban renewal),

Education and Labor, Government Operations, Judiciary (crime, civil rights), Interstate and Foreign Commerce (transportation and communications), and Public Works (water pollution).

"While we must insist that the administration exercise greater coordination and control over existing urban programs," the Congressman said, "we also have a responsibility to put our own house in order."

"The present system makes it impossible for the Congress to consider the interrelationships between housing and education, between transportation and pollution, and between highways and open spaces.

"Hopefully the new Standing Committee on Urban Affairs would be composed of Members from each of these Committees who would bring considerable expertise to a comprehensive approach to urban problems."

"A new Committee could reduce the overlap and the operation at cross-purposes that necessarily characterizes much of our consideration of metropolitan problems at the present time."

He also emphasized that the proposal has been a Republican initiative since 1961, and supported by Republican Members of the House in the 87th, 88th, 89th and now the 90th Congress.

Youth Dons Courage, Returns for His Watch

BY BILL KNUTSON

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

It took 22 days to get up the courage, but the young swimmer who fled — minus his expensive watch — when he and a companion were caught in a backyard pool early the morning of July 19, finally returned to claim the watch.

Well, in a way he returned to claim it. The pool owner, who lives near Pierce Park, was awakened about 2 a.m. July 19 by the sound of splashing in his back yard swimming hole. Two boys, Chuck Hertel, Big hitters for the losing Dodgers-Pirates were Don Karl and Mike Kobriger.

The man found a watch near the pool and, through a Post-Crescent story, informed the owner that he could return for the watch without fear of prosecution.

The southside man had just about given up on finding the owner of the watch.

But Wednesday night, two boys, one about 13 and the other about 16, came to his door. The smaller boy said the watch was his, and was able to describe it to the satisfaction of the man who had it. However, the band was far too big for the small boy's wrist. "He couldn't have kept it on his wrist," the man said. And, while the boy could not recall the name of the watch, the bigger youth could.

Relinquished Watch

Because the description fit, the pool owner turned the watch over to the pair.

He later learned that the watch actually belonged to the bigger boy who had paid the small boy $1.75 to tell the pool owner it was his. The big boy, as it turned out, could not get his July 19 swimming companion to return with him to the house.

The pool owner also learned that the boy who left his watch behind during the fast exit, also left his wallet for which he returned a short time later.

Wittenberg Ends Summer Program

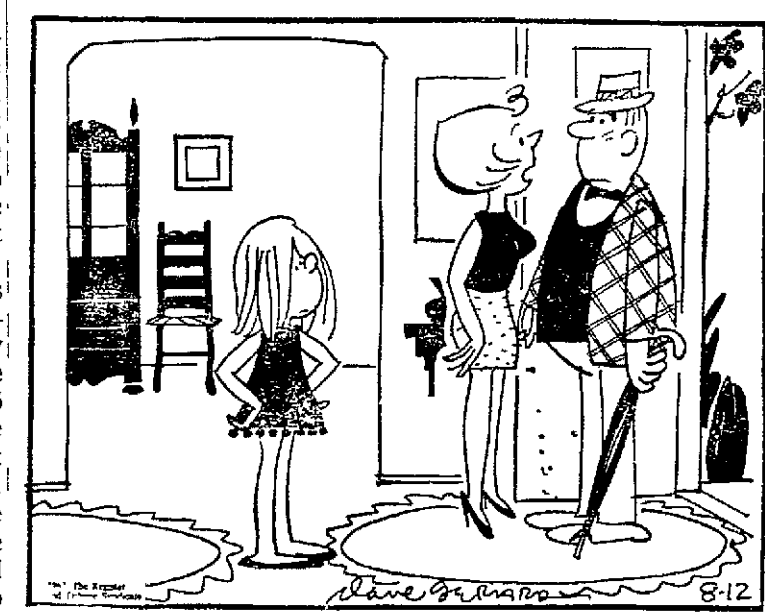

WITTENBERG — The "Tom Sawyer" Summer Reading Program ended this week with a party at the Village Park, as games were played and prizes awarded.

Forty-eight of the 54 children enrolled in the program attended the party. Seventeen children were active in the Thursday morning "Story Hour."

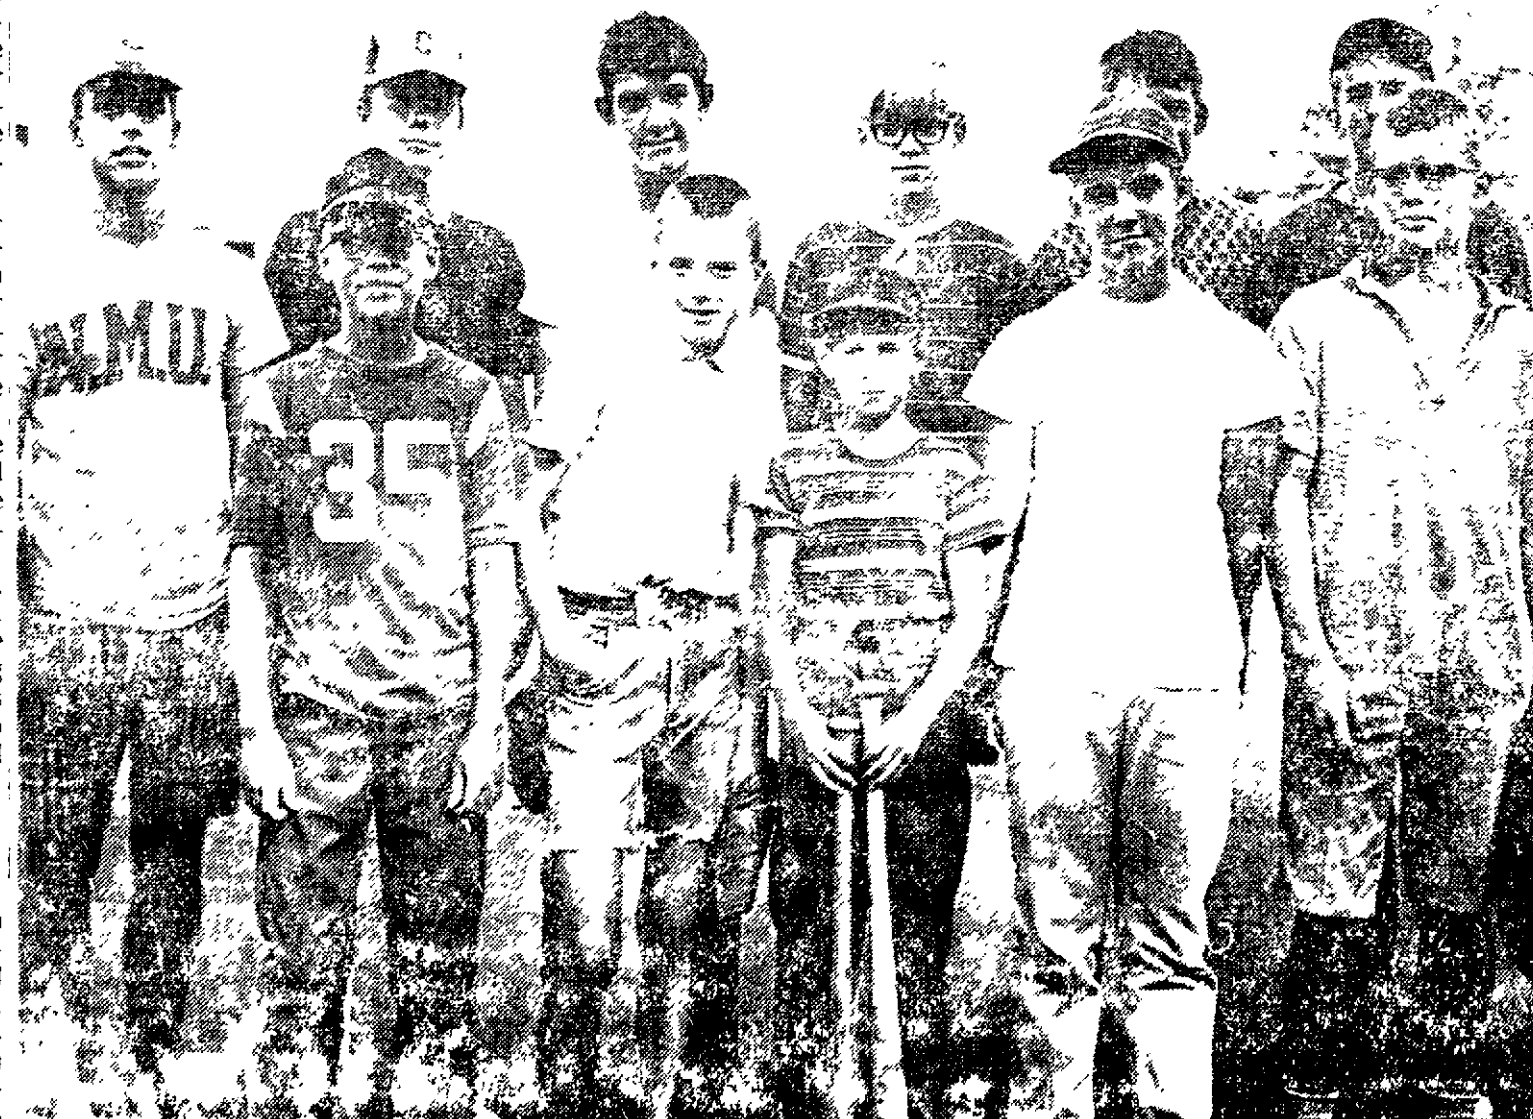

Mrs. Sanford Iverson, librarian, who has served in this capacity for 25 years, was in charge of the reading program. Assisting with the party were members of the library board — Richard Pike, Emma Krueger, Mrs. Grover Meisner, Mrs. Arthur Liesch, and Mrs. Roger Hanson. Mrs. Liesch and Mrs. Hanson aided Mrs. Iverson in library work.

Midsummer Furiously Busy for TV Industry

Productions Shined Up, Touted for Audience Acceptance in New Season

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This season's television capital in mid-summer is like the rest of the season between Thanksgiving and Christmas: furiously busy. Studios and staffs are working overtime to gift wrap their television productions to be viewed by audiences from Labor Day on.

Seventy-nine shows are in production, including 25 new series on the three major networks' evening schedules.

Stars and stars-to-be arise at 5:30 a.m. to work long weekdays at the studio, then fly off for exhausting weekends in spots as distant as Washington, D.C., submitting to interviews, and posing for pictures-all to publicize their shows.

Salesmanship Obvious
The networks already are selling new shows and survivors from other seasons during breaks in summer reruns.

As usual at this time of year, network game and conversation shows, from NBC's morning "Today" to ABC's late "Joey Bishop Show" are being visited on network orders by performers plugging their upcoming shows.

Studio and network press agents are concentrating on angles for stories, distributing pictures of their stars and attempting to convince skeptical newspaper and magazine writers that September will produce the most exciting collection of hits since Milton Berle ruled the airwaves.

Expensive Drum Beats
Last year, the trade magazine "Broadcasting" estimated that all this promotional activity cost the networks more than $3 million-exclusive of more millions in air time. This year it could be even more expensive.

At base, however, the drum beating seems perfunctory and forced. A look at the schedules indicates there will be the usual assortment of new shows-several Westerns, a few variety shows, a lot of action-adventure shows and a handful of half-hour comedy programs.

No big star names have come into television this season-neither Carol Burnett nor Jerry Lewis, who will star in variety shows on CBS and NBC respectively, is a television novice.

Specials Numerous
The season's excitement is expected to emerge through its "specials." ABC is publicizing its year as a "very special season," and NBC is doing a lot of talking about "event television."

Specials this season will number 125 to 300, depending on the definition of a special. They range from a Hall of Fame production of "Elizabeth the Queen" to assorted documentaries on San Francisco's hippies.

And two-hour feature motion pictures will be rerun in prime evening time six nights a week. They will include some vintage blockbusters like "The King and I" and some recent successes like "A Hard Day's Night" and "Ship of Fools."

Track, Field, Events on World Sports

BY TV SCOUT

4:50-5:30 (Channels 11-9) — World of Sports concentrates on track and field with the feature event being a Jim Ryun mile effort, in the USA vs Great Britain Track Meet from London, telecast live by satellite. The second event being covered today is the Americas vs Europe Track and Field Meet from Montreal. (C)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 2-7-12) — There's a fast-paced opener on "Away We Go" complete with Buddy Greco and the Miriam Nelson Dancers and many bicycles. Unfortunately the show slows down considerably after that Singer Grace Markay and comedian Charlie Manna are guests with regulars Greco, George Carlin and Buddy Rich and his orchestra. (C)

6:30-7 (Channels 4-5) — Brian Kelly as Porter Ricks of Flipper has portrayed many an anxious moment during this series but none to match that of this two-part conclusion. The crux of the matter lies with Bud, Sandy and Flipper isolated in a naval gunnery range during a target practice session. (C-R)

7-7:30 (Channels 4-5) — Please Don't Eat the Daisies explores the problem of finding competent household help and solves it by finding a woman (Ellen Corby) of unusually high caliber — so high in fact that her descent on the household becomes a definite threat to it. (C-R)

7:30-8 (Channels 4-5) — On Get Smart, KAOS threatens to destroy the U.S. city with the greatest concentration of intelligence and leaders. "Well at least Washington is safe," sighs Max. (C-R)

7:30-8:30 (Channels 2-7-12) — Mission: Impossible is more spook (and more contrived) than usual. The agents are prowling after a "ghost" who returns every now and then to bug his wife with anti-American chatter. (C-R)

8-10 (Channels 4-5) — Up until the exciting finale of "Wings of Fire" on Saturday Night at the Movies, in which star-crossed lovers take to the skies to dip, slide and dive in P-51s, the film appears mainly as a sponge for the woes of Suzanne Pleshette. A lady pilot who can't find love on the ground, her problem is too many men and martinis, and trying to keep this knowledge from her father (Ralph Bellamy) whose air freight company the young aviatrix is trying to save. James Farentino, Lloyd Nolan, Juliet Mills, Gary Crosby and Jeremy Slate are featured. (C-R)

Beatle George Harrison sports a flowing mustache and a floral design jacket as he follows his mini-skirted wife, Patti Boyd, aboard a plane at London. The couple is vacationing in the Los Angeles area on what Harrison describes as a pleasure-business trip. (AP Wirephoto)

Fulbright's 'Sick Society'

No one should have been surprised at the opinions expressed by Senator William Fulbright in his speech at the convention of the American Bar Association in Hawaii. His opposition to the United States role in Vietnam has been well known and often expressed. But the depth of his criticism of the Johnson Administration was unusual since Senator Fulbright too is a Democrat.

Instead of a Great Society, Senator Fulbright described ours as a "sick society." We are "engaged in the exercise of power for its own sake." And while "the statistics show financial capacity" to fight the war in Vietnam and poverty problems at home, "they do not show moral and psychological capacity. . . . Nor do the statistics tell how an anxious and puzzled people, bombarded by press and television with bad news of American deaths in Vietnam and the 'good news' of enemy deaths . . . can be expected to support neighborhood anti-poverty projects and national programs for urban renewal, employment and education. Anxiety about war does not breed compassion for one's neighbors nor do constant reminders of the cheapness of life abroad strengthen our faiths in its sanctity at home."

Certainly there is a relationship between the riots in our cities and the war in Vietnam that goes far deeper than the spending of money for the one and withholding it to try to prevent the other. In recent years there has been a tremendous increase in emphasis in films and literature on violence that is nothing more than sadism. But it is difficult to determine what is cause and what is effect. We are shocked on the one hand at Negro Black Power leaders who advocate burning and killing. But our leaders in Washington make much of the "kill ratio" in Vietnam and the burning of hamlets is a major means of trying to flush out the Viet Cong. We are appalled at the brutality in our cities, the beatings, rapes and vicious murders for a few pennies or simply the thrill of it all. But members of the Lions Club in convention pummeled some anti-war demonstrators while anyone with a beard or sandals was in danger of the same treatment from pro-war toughs in a New York march.

Senator Fulbright is right in his evaluation of American society and in his hope for the future in "a most remarkable younger generation" who "have perceived the fraud and sham in American life and are unequivocally rejecting it." But his point of view is completely the opposite of the leader of his political party who infers that critics of the war are frightened old women. It will be interesting to see what the ever-widening split does to Democratic chances in 1968.

County Board Snubs Appleton

Can it be that certain supervisors are using the Outagamie County Board as an instrument to harass the city of Appleton? Officials of the Appleton Board of Education, along with City Atty. David Geenen, were at Tuesday's county board session to express their opposition to the rezoning of a parcel of land, across from the new Appleton East High School but located in the Town of Buchanan, from agriculture to commercial. The rezoning of the property on East John Street would allow the construction of a "restaurant." Supervisors, during their July session, ignored the unanimous recommendation of the county zoning board that the zoning be denied.

Since the city had no official spokesmen present when the rezoning request was approved by the board in July, a motion to reconsider the action came up Tuesday so that Geenen, Supt. of Schools William Spears and Board of Education President Charles Buchanan could express their views. The board refused to reconsider. Appleton Supv. John Dietz, asked for unanimous consent to allow Geenen to give the city's views on the rezoning, but Buchanan Town Supv. Joseph DeBruin objected and Geenen wasn't allowed to speak.

The rude treatment accorded the city delegation by the board prompted a few supervisors to make personal apologies to the group.

The rezoning is just one of many examples of problems not being confined within municipal boundaries. The new high school is located within the city, but much of the land in its vicinity is in the Town of Buchanan. Appleton, rightfully, wants some control over zoning in the vicinity of its high school and expected cooperation from the county board. Whether the rezoning was right or wrong is one thing, but we must admonish the county board for not even allowing the city to give an official expression of its views. After all, was not Mark Catlin, the attorney for the persons seeking the rezoning, allowed to speak in his clients' behalf last July? The city, not expecting the county zoning board's recommendation to be upset, did not send a delegation to the July meeting. The least DeBruin and other supervisors could have done was listen. Then they could have ignored all the objections and reaffirmed last month's decision.

We know that chairmen and supervisors from towns surrounding Appleton have high feelings about the city's real and imagined annexation intentions. Battle lines are being drawn and feelings are hot. But why take feelings out against the city in this manner? We wonder if it is pure spite and harassment.

Equally surprising, in view of who they purport to represent on the county board, was the vote of 10 Appleton supervisors against the motion to reconsider. We are amazed that the ten would not even allow their city the opportunity to cite its reasons for opposing the rezoning.

The Migration From the Farm

One of the regrettable but irrevocable facts of modern American life is that a changing and advancing farm technology has had the effect of shrinking employment in farming and forces a larger number of farm-reared and trained young men and women into the cities each year.

In numerical terms, the job opportunities in agriculture today are fewer than ever before. Moreover, many ambitious young men conclude early in their lives that they prefer the economic opportunities of urban America to the uncertainties, and sometimes, the economic distress of farming as a career.

A recent study at the University of Illinois about the employment aspirations of nearly 3,000 of the state's rural high school juniors discovered that 95 per cent of them intend to look for non-farm jobs. No doubt the situation in Wisconsin would be similar, taking into account disparities in the proportions of farm and non-farm inhabitants of the two states. One expert calculates that only one out of ten of today's farm boys in the country as a whole who are reaching employment age will be needed to raise crops.

But the picture is not entirely gloomy. The agricultural colleges of the country continue to boom, including our own distinguished College of Agriculture at the University of Wisconsin. We have sometimes heard university representatives of other schools lament the continuing emphasis in legislative appropriations and elsewhere upon the agricultural curriculum of the university in a time of declining comparative importance of agriculture in Wisconsin life.

Thus it is important to appreciate that while most of the agricultural college students of this generation are not consciously, or even probably, destined to become farm proprietors or operators, they are heading for farm-related careers nevertheless.

Here in Wisconsin we have become familiar with the somewhat contrived word "agri-business." To the pedantic it may ring a little irritatingly in the ear. Yet the fact is that Wisconsin has a vast and thriving food processing industry, not only in the classical dairy lines, but in a variety of cash crops important to the total economy. The colleges that once sent technically trained graduates into farm proprietorships are now turning out technologists, scientists, teachers, and administrators who are also vital to a prosperous agriculture in the future, however direct farm employment is reduced. A survey of 14 state universities in the Middle West made by Iowa State College showed that industry and the professions are absorbing most of the agricultural students on those campuses as soon as they get their degrees. The business community last year recruited nearly a quarter of them, while a slender nine per cent of them returned to the land.

Looking Backward

Schoolma'ams Went and Did It

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Aug. 31, 1867.
According to figures made by the School Superintendent, there were 67 school teachers married in the county during the past year — 54 females and 13 males.

The school ma'ams must have more than ordinary attractions about them. Some old maids we know of should learn the art of teaching, or we fear they will never have an opportunity of teaching their own children.

School mistresses, as a rule, make the best of wives. Everybody should know that few ladies possess so great a fund of information as a good "school marm."

25 YEARS AGO
Saturday, Aug. 8, 1942.

Cuba Seeks to Extend Guerrilla Warfare Even to United States

BY BEN F. MEYER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Cheered on by Communist Cuba, guerrilla fighters now operate in several nations of Latin America.

Where they will strike next is anybody's guess. But hardly a day passes without shrill appeals from Havana Radio to extend the fighting and terrorism to other countries of that area. The Communists want to create "Little Vietnams" all over Latin America.

And the latest suggestion from Havana is that U.S. Negroes should carry guerrilla warfare to the cities of the United States. Stokely Carmichael, who showed up in Havana recently, said his black power supporters are "moving into urban guerrilla warfare in the United States."

Carmichael, who went to Havana for the Latin American Solidarity Organization conference, called to organize increased guerrilla activity in the western hemisphere, said in Cuba: "There is no alternative than to fight with arms." He added: "Our fight will be inside the U.S."

APPEALS TO NEGROES
Oswaldo Dorticos, Fidel Castro's hand-picked president of Cuba, opened the conference with an appeal to U.S. Negroes to join enemies of the United States in "an armed fight against North American imperialism."

Despite an outbreak of serious riots in various U.S. cities, however, Latin Americans generally believe their countries are more likely targets for Communist attacks than is the United States.

The worst guerrilla fighting to date has occurred in five Latin American countries — Bolivia, Colombia, Guatemala, Venezuela and Peru. Peru's government says it has halted such operations, but Bolivia appears the center of a concerted Communist drive.

Bolivia is regarded as a peculiarly dangerous spot. It has a record of political instability, economic troubles and slow social progress. In addition, its borders touch five other nations — Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Paraguay and Peru, and the border areas of those countries usually are remote, sparsely populated and poverty-ridden.

Argentina in July, 1964 captured 27 Castroite guerrillas in an area near the Bolivian border. If, as Fidel Castro says, his mysteriously absent one-time associate, Ernesto (Che) Guevara, is alive, the Bolivian area would be a likely hiding spot.

Brazil's chief poverty — and Communist — area is in the northeast, but its territory adjoining Bolivia makes policing difficult.

Uruguay, like Mexico, has long been considered a rendezvous point for Communists operating in Latin America. Chile and Uruguay are considered by some as long-range Communist targets because of their long record of democracy.

Guyana, formerly British Guiana, has had trouble in the past with followers of Cheddi Jagan, pro-Communist leader, and occasional guest of Castro in Cuba.

All May Drive Poorly, But Attitudes Toward Drinking Are Different

LONDON (AP) — More than half of Britain's seven million drivers see nothing wrong in having "a drink or two" despite government propaganda to the contrary, says an Automobile Association club report just issued.

The AA, which has more than three million members, reports that a survey shows that about 13 per cent of British drivers don't drink because they are abstainers and 37 per cent make a point of abstaining when driving.

Of those who do drink and drive, says the survey, a third estimate that three drinks is a safe consumption, one in 10 do not know and the remainder reckon that up to six drinks is reasonable.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE APPEALS

Ecuador has not reported any guerrilla activity, but Havana Radio broadcasts regularly in Quechua, the language of many Indians in Ecuador, Peru and Bolivia, urging insurrection. Havana beams special programs in Haiti's creole language, advocating overthrow of that country's dictator, Francois (Papa Doc) Duvalier.

Haiti, the Dominican Republic, Panama and Guatemala have on various occasions accused Cuba of sending in subversive forces.

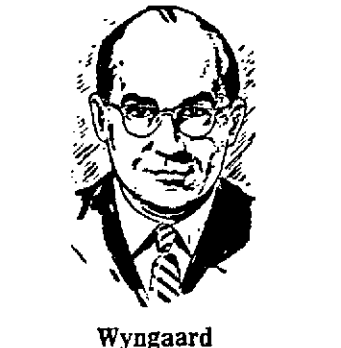

The Mexican government has several times clamped down on activities of Communists. Although it is the only country in Latin America with diplomatic and trade relations with Cuba, the Mexican government recently broke up a Castroite ring supplying money and arms to Guatemalan rebels.

All Communist activity in Latin America is not blamed on Fidel Castro, but experts here say that Communists are in agreement on one thing: the institution of communist regimes wherever possible.

Wisconsin Report
State Republicans
Report 70,000 Have Made Contributions

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — A parenthetical observation in a report on fund raising methods and requirements of the state Republican Party organization suggests one of the meaningful developments in Wisconsin political affairs.

During the last six years, noted E. A. Bagley of the state party committee staff, the number of contributors to the party's treasury has increased in a satisfying way.

Bagley disclosed that in 1961 the party counted under 3,000 givers. Today the total stands at around 70,000. As he noted in a party publication, the drive is on for an even longer list of donors to the party's budget for normal operations and for the increasingly costly work of managing campaigns for its candidates.

The report does not precisely define party contributors. Ostensibly they include men and women who do no more than pay dues to their county or other local party organizations. Nevertheless, there is suggested here a highly important trend for the democratization of campaign financing in an era of cost inflation that has worried thoughtful politicians as well as independent critics of political events.

BAD NAME APPLIED
For many years Republicans winced under the attacks of Democrats and other liberals on the campaign finance question.

The comparatively affluent Republican organization depended for the most part on small numbers of big givers who might have had other purposes than an interest in good government, as the charge went.

To a considerable extent that was true. Perhaps it remains true today. But it was also a case of necessity. In the days of temporary and slender party headquarters staffing, the solicitation of funds from persons of modest means was an inefficient task, often representing more in expense outlays than in returns for the campaign chest. Now in both parties techniques have been worked out for volunteer canvassing of neighborhoods in many of the counties of the state, evidently with satisfying results, to read Mr. Bagley's account of his own work.

VALUE IN COLLECTIONS
Even if such small contributions appear costly to collect from well-wishers in Democratic or Republican districts, there is a value in the process transcending the money yield, as one earnest member of a Madison political party unit when he rang the doorbell at our home and explained he was soliciting funds for a local party headquarters.

The man or woman who invest two dollars, or five, or 10, in the party of his choice is likely to become a more conscious ally of the cause. Community fund managers are aware of that consideration, as they exert every resource to get the broadest base of community involvement that is possible.

Bagley's report to his party workers inevitably warned about the continuing need for more money. No doubt this counterpoint in the nearby Democratic committee headquarters is sending out the same appeals.

NOT ALWAYS THUS
Although Wisconsin parties are staffed and otherwise budgeted modestly by the standards of other states, they are generously financed when measured against predecessors only a few years earlier, when this reporter arrived on the statehouse scene, a dedicated Republican named Richard Wiperman was the sole man in charge of the humble Republican headquarters. The party's affairs were managed for the most part out of his briefcase. Across the square, in a tiny hotel room, his counterpart, John Slocum of the Democrats, was wishing he had a briefcase.

Today the party managers in contemplating their 1968 campaign budgets are setting down figures that would have appeared shocking, and unattainable, a short generation ago. "If they are able to persuade more average citizens to share in such costs, they will create a more effective political structure, and what is more important, one that is truly representative."

'International Oval'
Status Symbol on Cars

WASHINGTON — In the never-ending race for status, a small oval on cars is running neck and neck with low-number license plates.

The increasingly popular status symbol is the "international oval." The medallion identifies an automobile's country of registration, the national Geographic Society says.

Thus, a motorist from the United States who drives his car abroad identifies it with a white oval bearing the black initials USA. Once back in the states, there is no further need for the insignia — except as a cachet of foreign travel.

Many motorists do not remove their identification plaques, valuing them even more than a collection of window and bumper stickers. Others, whose cars never have left the United States, buy and attach USA ovals (a popular aluminum number sells for $2.50).

Misleading GB
Some American drivers regard foreign medallions as required accessories, especially for imported cars. Many an English sports car bears a GB emblem, though the vehicle never has touched tire to its native soil.

Americans who buy and register their cars in foreign countries often retain the international oval when they return home. An American car recently seen in Washington, D.C., had Maryland license plates and two ovals — GB for

Great Britain and F for France.

Ovals Necessary
The practice of identifying an automobile's country of origin began in Europe, where national borders are crossed almost as often as state lines and most license plates show only numerals and letters. To add to the confusion, many tags have identical color combinations.

Without the ovals, local police and customs officials would be hard-pressed to determine the homeland of visiting cars.

By 1914, 16 nations had signed an agreement setting up a system of identifying initials. Among them were Austria—A; Belgium—B; Bulgaria—BG; Netherlands—NL; and Sweden—S.

The original MN for Montenegro disappeared when that country became a part of Yugoslavia after World War I. After the revolution, the Soviet Union became SU, giving up the former R for Russia. R is now used by Rumania.

Puzzling Initials
These initials are simple enough to decipher, but others are tricky. For example, E identifies Spain. Espana, and D stands for Deutschland, the Germans' name for their country. One of the hardest to translate is CH, not Chile, but Switzerland, Confederation Helvetica.

IRL is the official designation for Ireland, but some proud Irishmen refuse to give up their EIR for Eire.

The ovals have spread to all parts of the world, and more than 200 initials are registered with the United Nations. Among them are North Borneo (Sabah)—CNB; Hong Kong—HK; Western Samoa—WS; Kuwait—KWT; and Trinidad and Tobago—TT.

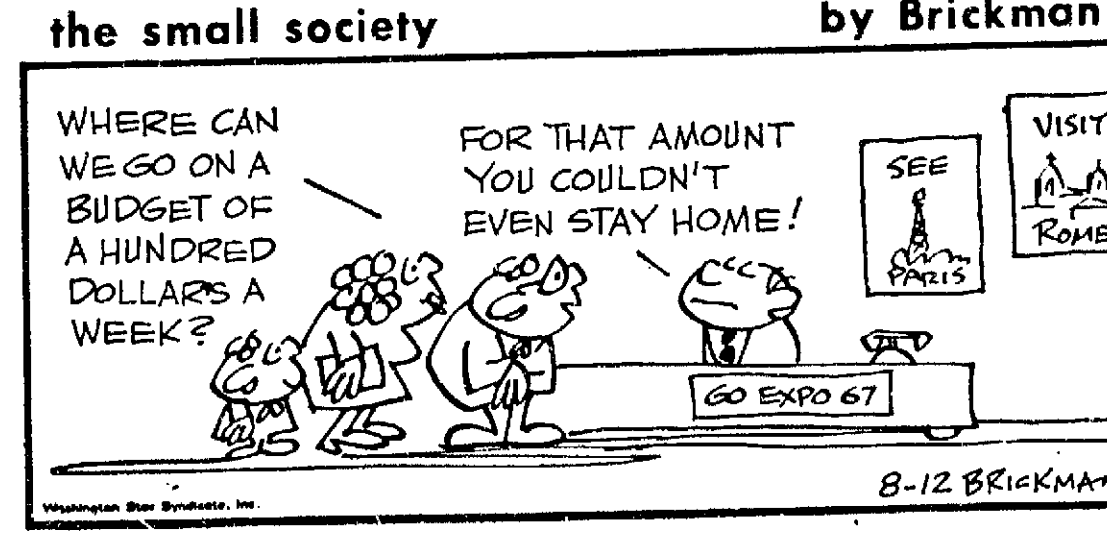

Some African emblems are prefaced by letters indicating East or West Africa. This leads to such curious combinations as EAK for Kenya, EAT for Tanzania, WAN for Nigeria, and WAG for Gambia.

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Airplane pilots trying to land at the Hutchinson airport were reminded one day to watch out for a cow.

An errant bovine had jumped a fence and gone for a stroll on a runway.

VanderKelen Injured, May Miss Game

MANKATO, Minn. (AP) — The rash of knee injuries which has hit the Minnesota Vikings summer football training camp has struck now quarterback Ron VanderKelen, who may not be able to play in the National Football League team's first exhibition game tonight.

VanderKelen suffered a strained knee ligament in Wednesday's practice, and the knee stiffened on him Thursday.

Vandy, counted upon to be the Vikings' No. 1 quarterback with the trade of Fran Tarkenton to the New York Giants, was sent to the Twin Cities to be examined by Vikings physician Dr. Donald Lamm.

It won't be known until Friday whether VanderKelen will be able to play against the Philadelphia Eagles Saturday at Tulsa, Okla.

Melges Wins In Absentia

Takes Commanding Lead in Race Series, Skips Final Event

BAY BEACH, Ont. (AP) — A confident Bud Melges headed home for Lake Geneva, Wis., before the final race Friday and won the U.S. National Open Flying Dutchman sailing championships in absentia.

Melges, who also took the event last year, held commanding lead in the best-of-6 race series and decided not to finish out the event. He had 16 points.

So, he, his wife, 8-year-old daughter and Dr. John R. Melges of Beloit, Wis., his crew drove off to the Canadian Yacht Club, Toronto, for the final battle and rose from seventh to third place in the over-all standings with 28.4 points.

Melges' closest rival, Scott Allen of Newport Beach, Calif., was third in the last race and took second over-all with 22.4 points under the low-point, Olympic scoring system, 6.4 more than the champion.

John Jennings of St. Petersburg, Fla., second across the line in Friday's 32-boat contest settled for fourth over-all with 33.4 points.

Melges, a 27-year-old boat-builder, had three victories and a pair of fourth-place finishes in his 19-foot 10-inch sloop, Widgeon.

U.S. Rejects Plan to Send Poll Watchers to Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Saigon government had clear notice today that Congress is not going to take any hand in the present regime is rigging the election of a president and other officials.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., joined the Senate's Democratic and Republican leaders in quickly rejecting Friday an official invitation to send congressional poll watchers.

Thus were dashed the hopes of Nguyen Van Thieu's military government of quieting criticism—which Kennedy helped put in the Senate Friday—that the present regime is rigging the election of a president and other officials.

Negro Gets Milwaukee Police Post

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A former Omaha, Neb., detective who became a Secret Service agent will be the community relations specialist for the Milwaukee Police and Fire Commission.

Richard E. Artison, 34, a Negro, was named to the newly created post Friday.

He is currently on assignment with the Secret Service in Washington, D.C.

Artison, 34, will be expected to develop a recruiting program, review and investigate citizen complaints against the police or fire departments and administer a community relations program.

Mayor Henry Maier called for creation of the position last September. Civil Rights groups had insisted that a Negro be appointed to the commission.

Artison, who has a bachelor's degree in psychology and sociology from Drake University, was one of 27 persons, including a commission member, to apply for the job.

An Omaha policeman for four years, Artison also served for three years in Army counterintelligence.

N. Korean Infiltrators Attack U.S. Patrol; Wisconsin GI Wounded

SEOUL (AP) — A Wisconsin soldier was one of nearly 20 soldiers killed or wounded Thursday when their unit was ambushed Thursday by North Korean infiltrators, the Army said today.

Spec. 4 Richard D. Hultin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Hultin of Okauchee in Waukesha County, Wis., was listed among 16 U.S. soldiers and a South Korean soldier who were wounded.

Three U.S. soldiers died in the ambush, one of them a sergeant. The 8th Army said the soldiers were riding in a truck about 35 miles north of Seoul when it was hit by grenades thrown from concealment.

The attackers also fired automatic weapons at the truck. The soldiers returned the fire, and were soon joined by reinforcements. It was not known whether the attackers had any casualties.

Guerrillas Hit 4 Compounds South of DMZ

Shelbyville, Ky., an A4 Skyhawk pilot who was flying his 200th mission over North Vietnam, reported that 750 and 1,000-pound bombs dropped the Phu Ly highway bridge.

A6 Intruders and F4 Phantoms attacked the Sung Van railroad and highway bridge 18 miles southeast of the Phu Ly Bridge. Pilots said their bombs appeared to be on target but that heavy smoke prevented a damage assessment.

Navy A4 Skyhawk pilots reported wrecking the Hai Duong military barracks midway between Hanoi and Haiphong and the Phu Ly transformer station 35 miles south of Hanoi.

The 12 long barracks at Hai Duong were engulfed in flames that sent smoke towering 1,000 feet, Navy pilots said.

There were no U.S. planes reported lost in any of the strikes over the North.

Near Hanoi

The U.S. raids on the Doumer Bridge marked the closest strikes to the center of North Vietnam's capital since a power plant in Hanoi was raked June 10.

Radio Hanoi, without mentioning the bridge, claimed North Vietnam's armed forces shot down three U.S. planes. U.S. Command in Saigon issued no confirmation.

Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, American military commander in the Pacific, denounced the suggestion that the attack meant an escalation of the air war. "Escalation is a dirty word," Sharp said in Honolulu, "Hitting more targets in North Vietnam is just a logical progression of the air campaign ... not a step in escalation."

The navigator of a U.S. Air Force F4C Phantom was killed when the craft crashed at Da Nang Air Base on its return from a combat mission. And the pilot of an A4 Skyhawk died when his plane was shot down as he backed up U.S. ground forces 350 miles north of Saigon. It was the 199th U.S. plane reported shot down in the South.

Vehicles Damages

The Air Force said its fliers damaged 15 pieces of rolling stock 38 miles northwest of Hanoi and touched off seven secondary explosions and 20 fires in a rocket attack south of Dong Hoi in lower North Vietnam.

Navy pilots reported crippling three missile sites and two anti-aircraft sites, but did not give the locations of the targets.

The U.S. raids 6th grad 132. Big B52 bombers rocked suspected troop concentrations nine miles west of Quang Ngai City and 13 miles west of Phuoc Long City near the Cambodian border. The eight-engine stratoforts also hit a munitions factory in the Quang Ngai raid.

NRA Expels Newsman for 'Trite Trick'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Rifle Association has expelled the Dayton Journal-Herald reporter who successfully used the name of a convicted murderer on his NRA application card.

The NRA said Friday it had revoked the membership of Richard Zimmerman, who it charged with employing the "trite trick" of using the name Cleo Vernon Keaton in applying for membership.

Keaton was convicted nearly two years ago for the murder-robbery of a Pickaway, Ohio, County man. That slaying occurred as Keaton was fleeing a double murder charge filed after two persons were shot to death in a Dayton bar.

Zimmerman said Thursday in an article he used Keaton's name to "see if the NRA makes more of an effort to check out applicants than do firearms sellers in checking out gun buyers. And I also was interested in finding out if the endorsement procedure involved even a cursory check."

Daughter in Dilemma Over Mother's Disturbed Behavior

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Do you have any advice for a high school girl whose mother is always bringing strange men home? My father is dead and I realize my mother is lonely but I think she should not entertain men all night when she has a teen-age daughter. It is terribly embarrassing to wake up in the morning and meet a stranger wandering around the apartment.

I can't have a boy friend in after a date because I don't know what we might find when I open the front door. I wouldn't dream of asking a girl friend to spend the night with me because I never know who might show up at the breakfast table.

I have one year and a half before I can leave and go into nurses training. But what do I do until then? — No Place Like Home

DEAR NO PLACE: Of course it is disgraceful that your mother shows such little consideration for you or respect for herself, but her outrageous behavior is an indication of how mentally disturbed she is.

Your mother needs professional help. Let's hope someone will steer her to it. As for you, I'm sure you'll live through the next 18 months O.K. You sound like a young lady who has her head on straight.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Will you please tell me what to do about a husband who cannot stand to let his wife enjoy a telephone conversation?

If I am upstairs talking to a friend, or to my mother or my sister, my husband gets on the extension and clicks until I hang up. Sometimes he will walk past me and holler, "Get off the phone, your three hours are up" — or something equally rude. It isn't that he wants to use the phone, it's just that he hates to see me enjoy myself.

I do my housework, cook good meals — nothing is neglected, least of all him. Please tell me how to deal with my 34-year-old problem. — No Phony

DEAR NO PHONY: Your husband is a spoiled noodnik who feels left out if he is not the center of your world.

Whenever possible, do your telephoning when he is away. Before you make what may turn into a chatty call, ask the big baby if he wants to use the phone. Offer to get him a cup of coffee, an apple or a good book. Tell him you are making a call and you don't want to be interrupted. If he clicks the received or yells into the phone after that, simply ignore him, make no apologies for him, and show no anger.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I lost my sight when I was eight years old and I have a wife and three children.

It's very hard for a blind man to make a living because nobody wants to hire me. So I do the next best thing. I sit on the corner with a cup and sell pencils. We have moved to several different cities and have done O.K. In this town two cops have told me that begging is against the law and to get moving.

Why should there be a law against a man trying to make a living? My wife is writing this for me and we need a fast answer so please hurry. — Tough Luck

DEAR T.L.: No one needs to beg in America. There are countless well-a-re organizations who will help you. Write to American Foundation For The Blind, 15 West 16th Street, New York, New York 10011.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise: more flexible and covers a wider area. I also use one in the kitchen away every two weeks.

As it's so expensive to buy minnows each time we go, and throw away the ones that are left over, we brought the remaining ones home last time.

Just dumped them and the water they were in into an old fish tank, added a little fresh water and a big conch shell (to give them a bit of privacy) and fed them our turtle's food each day.

Know something? Those fish remained perky for a full week! Then we changed the water completely. What a mistake! Our future bait was dead within an hour. What's happen?

Baitless: Your readers might be interested in an idea of mine . . . It is a woman's wig with the hair done up in curlers for use by women who don't have time to put their own hair up in curlers before going to the supermarket . . .

Old Timer: Dear Heloise: When your mesh-covered atomizer bulbs crack and fall apart, here's a solution.

If you happen to have a cluster of those large artificial grapes (the soft and pliable vinyl type), just remove one grape from an inconspicuous spot and mash it onto the atomizer stem in place of the old bulb.

These vinyl grapes (some artificial cherries can be also adapted for this) will work indefinitely and as good as the original bulb.

Steve Clenso: The little hole is already there where the grape was attached to its stem and it fits our atomizer perfectly! I did take a hot ice pick and punch a tiny hole in the side of the grape (look at the original bulb) and it worked better for me.

Al Taylor: Dear Heloise: With barbecue weather upon us, here's a tip we sure like. We use a nylon dish mop to baste our barbecue meat. It works so much better than a pastry brush because it's

Baxter Retains 'Classic' Lead With 134 Total

Gets Pressure Test Today in Foursome With Arnie, Jack

By JOE MOOSHIL Associated Press Sports Writer AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Rex Baxter Jr. has coped admirably with the lengthy fairways of the Firestone Country Club for two days, but the real test was to come today when he was placed in the same threesome with Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus. That's Baxter's reward for putting together two subpar rounds in the 100,000 American Golf Classic which winds up Sunday. Baxter shot a two-under-par 68 Friday after an opening round 66 for a 134 total to take a two-stroke lead over Jack McGowan, the only other player in the tournament with successive under subpar rounds over the 7-180-yard layout with a par of 35-70.

McGowan shot a 67 Friday for a 136 total while Palmer scrambled to a 67 and a 137 total. Nicklaus, South African Al Henning and Bobby Nichols were bunched at 139 and were the only other players under par after 36 holes.

Baxter, who was heading for a course record before stumbling on a pair of double bogeys, bounced back with a birdie on No. 17 and a par on No. 18 to avert what seemed to be a total collapse.

Baxter will not only be fighting off McGowan, Palmer and Nicklaus, but the galleries which Palmer and Nicklaus command. Then, too, the 31-year-old Texan, who has won only one tournament in his 10 years as a professional will be caught in the middle of Palmer's desire to play fast and Nicklaus's deliberate game.

Nicklaus and Nichols both shot 69s Friday while Henning bounced in with a brilliant 66, one stroke over the course record shared by Palmer, Don Fairfield and Bob Rosburg.

Gardner Dickinson, Kermit Zarley and Bert Yancey were at even par of 140 and still in position to charge the lead, while Doug Sanders, Ken Still, Chuck Courtney and Lebron Harris were another stroke back at 141. The field was chopped to the low 70 professionals and ties Friday with such notables as Fairfield, Lionel Hebert, Mason Rudolph, Jack Fleck and Jack Rule among those failing to make the cut of 151.

Little Chute Team To Leave Sunday

LITTLE CHUTE — Players, officials and some wives of the Little Chute baseball team. Wisconsin's representative in the National Baseball Congress Tournament, will leave for Wichita, Kan., in a 7-car caravan 7 a.m. Sunday to begin an 800-mile journey. The trip is expected to take 16-17 hours.

Steelers First 'Pro' Opposition

50,861 to See Bays

GREEN BAY — Snipping a piece of tape from his left ankle following Friday's lengthy practice, cherubic Elijah Pitts chuckled dryly and observed, "Some of the young fellows may have some illusions, but not us old guys."

"There's no doubt about it — tomorrow night's game is going to be a lot different than it was playing the College All-Stars last week."

The pride of Philander Smith College, an ancient of 28 summers, was noting the fact that he and his fellow world champions will be encountering professional opposition for the first time in the infant 1967 season when they welcome the re-nascent Pittsburgh Steelers to Lambeau Field tonight.

The inference, obviously, is that this latest assignment, the seventh annual Bishop's Charities game will be considerably more taxing than was the All-Star match, in which the Packers charged to an early 20-0 lead and cruised from there to a 27-0 victory.

Based on last year's skirmish with the Steelers, in which the Packers had more than a few uneasy moments before forging a 17-6 decision over Bill Austin's grudging Pennsylvanians, Pitts fears are well grounded.

Both head coaches aren't sure of what to expect from the Steelers, who will be making their first competitive appearance of the season. In his second year as Pittsburgh's headmaster, Austin says, "I think we will have a better team than we had last year, but I don't know if we will have against the Packers."

Blessed with a rugged, experienced defense, the ex-New York Giant aide is not as well off on attack, at the moment. In fact, he will be submitting a revamped offensive line to its initial test in tonight's contest, to be witnessed by a capacity house (50,861) fans.

Only left guard Larry Gagner and center Ray Mansfield are back from the '66 unit, following the retirement of Dan James and the expansion draft loss of Charles Bradshaw to the New Orleans Saints, who subsequently traded him to the Detroit Lions.

John Brown, one of the five principals in the Cleveland Browns' recent holdout case, who acquired in a trade last week, is scheduled to start at James' former left tackle post, while Fran O'Brien, who shared left tackle with James a year ago, will be stationed on the right side.

Bruce Van Dyke, who came to the Steelers in a trade with the Philadelphia Eagles, also is a newcomer to the Pittsburgh forward wall. Van Dyke, a 235-pound University of Missouri alumnus, replaces veteran Mike Magac, who underwent knee surgery Friday.

Austin also will be getting his first opportunity to assess the principal in the exchange which sent ace receiver Gary Ballman to the Eagles, fullback Earl Gros. Sophomore Bill Asbury is scheduled to start, but the ex-Packer is expected to see heavy action.

Jones Has Single, Double, Homer

Foxes Build ML Lead With 8 to 3 Victory

DAVENPORT, Ia. — Appleton continued its assault on the Midwest League's second-place clubs and veteran "Deacon" Jones maintained his torrid hitting pace as the Foxes downed the Quad Cities, 8-3, here Friday.

The Foxes have now met the ML's No. 2 team (Dubuque, Decatur and Quad Cities) six times in the last two weeks and have won five of the contests to increase their league-lead to a full five games.

The victory was Appleton's third straight and eighth in its last nine games. The Foxes are now 15-7 on the road for the second half and brought their season record against the Angels to 5-6. Appleton will attempt to even the series tonight in the final game of the 2-day stand when Durant Cooper (8-2) will go against Rick Well (7-3).

Jones held a big hand in last night's victory as he hammered out a single, double and home run to score twice and drive in four runs. In the last week, the slugging player-coach has rapped out 14 hits in 25 at bats for a .560 average with five doubles and a homer.

Righthander Ken Murphy held true to form when he went the distance for Appleton on the mound. The Foxes' pitching corps has now completed nine of its last 10 games and 11 of the last 13. He was raked for 10 hits but allowed only one earned run. He did not walk a batter. It was the second straight time he has gone nine innings without

Cardinal Quarterback Failed Physicals Twice Already

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — doesn't hold out any hope for Johnson to be rejected when he takes his post-induction physical examination. The Army question is, will the Army want to keep him?

"The thing that surprised me," said Johnson who was called up Friday for two years active duty, "was that I had been rejected so often in the Army physical examinations required annually."

Johnson has been deferred twice because of physical problems. He was deferred in 1965 because of a shoulder separation which required surgery. In 1966 he was deferred because of a football injury to his knee. The knee required surgery, and it was after that operation that Johnson took his latest physical.

Appleton '9' One of 16 in Nation Moving to Regionals; Don Merkel Hurls Six-Hitter

OTTUMWA, Ia. — Sixty-one minutes was all it took the Appleton McKinley Little League team to prove its superiority over a Rapid City, S. D., squad and lay claim to the Northern Region, Division 1 Little League championship with a 4-1 victory here Friday.

Appleton now ranks as one of 16 teams in the United States and 32 in the world who have survived four weeks of tournament competition that has eliminated over 22,000 Little League teams to gain berths in the regional finals. The winners of the eight regional tournaments proceed to Williamsport, Pa., for the week-long Little League World Series.

Next week the Appleton McKinley team will travel to Harvey, Ill., where it will represent the 7-state Division 1 (Missouri, Iowa, South Dakota, North Dakota, Minnesota, Kansas and Wisconsin) in the Northern Region finals, beginning Thursday.

Righthanded pitcher Don Merkel didn't let anything fluster him as he displayed excellent control in scattering six hits and issuing no bases-on-

Goose Hunting Applications Now Available Around State

MADISON — Application forms for the new Wisconsin goose hunting permits and tags are now available at offices of county clerks throughout the state, the Division of Conservation, Department of Natural Resources said today.

The permits and tags must be in the possession of any sportsman hunting Canada geese in Wisconsin this fall.

L. P. Voigt, acting secretary of the department, said that county clerks have been asked to distribute application forms to license outlets in their counties where hunting licenses are normally available. These include many sporting goods and hardware stores.

Hunters applying for the tags are asked to carefully follow directions in filling out the form. Failure to do so may result in mishandling the application and possible disqualification.

Johnson Surprised by Army 'Callup'

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — back Jim Hart from Southern Illinois University. Hart was a free-agent pickup last year camp "If it had been during the season, we would have been in a trade and did not think the club would be helped much if a quarterback was available."

"We're not going to weaken our club to make a trade," Winner added. "And besides you have to go with what you have confidence in, and we have Vidal Carlin of North Texas State. Hart is scheduled to start tonight's exhibition game with the New Orleans Saints in Shreveport, La. Van Galder and Carlin are to work the second half of the game."

Lolich Ends Personal Losing Streak at 10, Stops Orioles

Dean Chance Hurls Twins to 3-2 Victory Over White Sox

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
It took Mickey Lolich just five weeks to win his first five games but almost three months to snare the sixth.

Lolich, a 14-game winner for Detroit last year, finally ended a 10-game personal losing streak Friday night when he pitched a five-hitter and beat Baltimore 5-2.

Between his fifth victory May 19 and No. 6 Friday, he served two weeks of active duty with the Michigan Air National Guard and another week during last month's racial disorders.

He finally ended the dry spell with an eight-strikeout performance that gave the Tigers a split in their doubleheader with the Orioles. Baltimore took the opener 5-1.

Elsewhere in the American League, first place Chicago dropped a 3-2 decision to Minnesota, Kansas City trimmed Washington 3-2 in 10 innings, New York swept a doubleheader from Cleveland 5-3 and 4-1 and California shut out Boston 1-0.

The way American League batters had been teeing off on Lolich, he seemed better off wearing Army fatigues instead of baseball flannels.

But he ended his slump impressively against the Orioles.

McKinley '9' Divisional Titlist, 4-1

Despite the long blow he was held to a single when Merkel could advance no farther than second. Dave Mauthe's single loaded the bases again bringing up Anderson who grounded to second and received credit for an RBI as Merkel beat the throw to the plate.

Two forceouts at the plate ended the inning with the sacks still jammed.

Every Appleton batter except Anderson had at least one hit and he reached base his three times up on fielders choices. Mauthe, Erickson and Merkel all had a pair of safeties.

Strand 9 Runners

Appleton stranded a total of nine runners in its five at bats, leaving the bases loaded in the fourth, two on in the first and fifth and single runners in the second and third.

Merkel's only serious trouble was in the second. After Simons' home run and a groundout, Jim Berendes had the only other extra-base hit of the game, a double, and Dennis Eslinger was safe on an error to put runners on first and third. Merkel then retired the next two men.

None of three Appleton errors proved harmful to Merkel and it could not take advantage of Rapid City's lone miscue either. Losing pitcher, Eslinger, helped make the game a snappy 61-minute affair as he matched Merkel's performance by not walking a batter.

In the consolation game Joplin, Mo., which had lost to Rapid City in extra innings Thursday, stopped Des Moines Ia., South. 4-0, on three hits.

terized as a young Bart Starr by Austin. Kent Nix, his understudy and one of five former Packers on the Pittsburgh roster, likewise should put in an appearance before the evening is over.

The Packers' opening format will be the same as Coach Vince Lombardi employed against the All-Stars, with one possible exception. Marv Fleming, recovered from a shoulder injury, is available and may start, although Allen Brown could get the call because of his creditable performance in Chicago and the fact that he has seen more practice action.

Elijah Pitts and Ben Wilson are expected to draw the starting backfield assignments, although the mercurial sophomores, Donny Anderson and Jim Grabowski, are likely to be on display early.

Up front, it will be Boyd Dowler at split end, Bob Skoronski and Forrest Gregg at tackle. Gale Gillingham and Jerry Kramer at guard and Ken Bowman at center. Bart Starr will open at quarterback and Carroll Dale at flanker.

As per custom, the National Football League's most accomplished defense will have Willie Davis, Ron Kostelnik, Henry Jordan and Lionel Aldridge manning the front line, backed by Dave Robinson, Ray Nitschke and Lee Roy Caffey at linebacker and Herb Adderley, Bob Jeter, Willie Wood and Tom Brown in the "outfield."

The Packers will be striving to preserve a perfect record in the charities production. They won the first two (1961 and '62) by 20-17 scores, then followed with a 24-17 decision in '63 and 34-10 and 44-7 triumphs in '64 and '65, all over the New York Giants, before turning back the Steelers last season.

A Familiar Figure to the Green Bay Packers fans, LeAnn Christiansen of Waukesha, has retired as head majorette of the Packer band. She will be a freshman at Rich College, Rexburg, Idaho this fall and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Christiansen of Waukesha. (AP Wirephoto)

Action Starts Monday

Bleier's Defends City Softball Tourney Title

Bleier's Bar, champion for the last two years, heads the field of 16 teams entered in the 22nd annual Appleton City Softball Tourney which opens Monday night.

Eight games are on tap in the first night of action at four different sites for the single elimination tourney. The winners will advance to the second round Wednesday night for four more games.

The survivors play semi-final games Monday night, Aug. 21, and the finals (championship and third place games) are slated for Aug. 23 at Telulah Park.

Bleier's swept to its second crown in succession in the 1966 tourney, blanking Subway Bar, 3-0, in the final game as Bob Diener fired a 1-hitter. Diener is expected to hurl for Bleier's again in the coming meet and along with Jerry Schmidt, forms a tough combination to beat.

The reigning champs are one of four Classic League teams entered. Bleier's is currently on top in this year's league chase with a 9-2 record, while Paradise Club is right behind at 8-2. Glen Nau, who recently helped Jitter's & John's Bar of Menasha to the Fox Valley Tournament title, should make Paradise a strong contender.

The two other teams from the Classic circuit are Dick's Pub and Black's Drive-Inn. Dick's, behind the hurling of Bob Hietpas and Jim Stepanski, has a 6-5 record good for third place. The International Industrial League sends the most representatives to the meet with five. The Power Company, the loop winner at 11-3, will have Harold Lehmann and Ralph Vinhurst sharing mound duties. Zwicker's (9-5), IPC No. 2 (8-6), Foremost Dairies (7-7), and Appleton Mills (6-8) are the remaining clubs.

Champion Allis-Chalmers (11-3) leads the contingent of three teams from the National Industrial League and features pitcher

Eau Claire Splits Pair With World Softball Champs

EAU CLAIRE (AP)—Wisconsin fast pitch softball champion Peters' Packers of Eau Claire split a doubleheader Friday night with defending world games champion Aurora, Ill., Sealmasters, losing the opener 2-0 and winning the nightcap 3-1. Larry Sparks was the winning pitcher in Eau Claire's victory, allowing only one run as the Packers scored three runs on two walks and an error in the fifth inning.

in the opening inning. Greg O'Brien singled with the bases loaded for the first two runs, Tom Boettcher singled in two more, and Glen Richgels doubled home the last two.

Boettcher's fifth-inning homer with one on stretched Madison's lead to 8-0 and the capital city team added its final run in the sixth.

Erlick Bloohm's double drove in the Fond du Lac's first run in the sixth inning, and Don Eirring's 2-bagger brought home Bill Minnich with Fondy's second run in the seventh. Eirring later scored on an error by the shortstop.

Atlanta Wins in 16th Inning

Pirates Get to Frisella Before National Guard Does for 3-2 Triumph

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Pittsburgh Pirates got to victory in 10 games. Jim Bun-Danny Frisella 20 minutes be-ning won his 13th game, stop-fore the California Air National ping the Cubs on seven hits and Guard did, but Don Shaw's pre-induction celebration saved the day for the New York Mets.

Frisella had to catch a plane at 11:30 Friday night in order to attend a guard meeting near his home in San Mateo. Allowing for a quick change and speedy trip to the airport, the Mets figured he'd have to leave the mound at Shea Stadium no later than 10:15.

The Pirates speeded up the timetable a bit, however, and when they got their second run off Frisella at 9:55, Shaw came in to mop up in the 3-2 Mets' victory.

Shaw leaves for six months of active duty with the Army Reserve on Sunday and made what might be his last appearance a good one, keeping the Pirates from scoring and striking out two in the ninth.

Cubs Beaten
In other National League action, St. Louis shaded San Francisco 2-1, Los Angeles blanked Cincinnati 5-0, Atlanta downed Houston 6-5 in 16 innings and Philadelphia edged Chicago 2-1.

Frisella not only pitched well, he also drove in one run and scored another. Dennis Ribant, an ex-Met was the loser. Manny Mota set up one Pittsburgh run and scored the other.

Orlando Cepeda returned to the St. Louis line-up after a two-day suspension for arguing with an umpire and hit a two-run homer for the Cards' victory. margin. Nelson Briles, with relief help from Joe Hoerner, was the winning pitcher.

Brewer Fires Shutout
Jim Brewer gave up four hits in the seven innings he pitched and Jim Lefebvre had three hits and scored twice for the Dodgers. Lou Johnson hit a two-run homer, his sixth, in the sixth inning.

Joe Torre's 17th homer ended the marathon in Atlanta, the longest game in the stadium's history. Felipe Alou's pinch homer in the 13th gave Atlanta a second chance which Torre cashed in on when he hit one off Barry Latman.

Bill White drove in Johnny Briggs with his third straight

NM Training Includes Police Image, Drugs

NEENAH-MENASHA — An eight-session law enforcement training program, including topics ranging from police image to the effects of hallucinatory drugs, will be offered to police officers in the Twin City area starting next January.

The seminar consists of six two-hour conferences and two three-hour workshops at the Neenah Vocational, Technical and Adult School evenings, from 7 to 9 p.m., and repeated Thursday mornings, from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. to allow all area policemen to participate.

The first session on Jan. 17-18 will involve police image and public relations handled by Capt. Harold Compton, of the Green Bay Police Department.

Deputy Lt. Stanley Davenport, of the Madison Police Department, will speak on the effects of hallucinatory drugs and narcotics on Jan. 24-25.

William H. Sadusky, chief of police at New Berlin, will conduct two three-hour sessions on interviewing and interrogation on Jan. 31-Feb. 1 and again on Feb. 7-8.

Techniques in police photography will be explained by Sylvian Kindshi, special investigator from the identification bureau for the Madison Police Department on Feb. 14-15.

Basic signs and signals, along with traffic engineering, will be outlined by representatives of the Green Bay Traffic Engineering Department.

Detention Procedures

Thomas Fink, Winnebago County district attorney, will explain detention procedures on Feb. 28-29.

The eighth session, which will include a review of the material and a final examination, will be handled by Capt. Compton, of the Green Bay Police Department, on March 6-7. Certificates will be awarded to policemen on successful completion of the course.

The course has been developed by James Malotke, Neenah Vocational Director and Giles Wolf, Menasha vocational director.

Kenneth A. Van Den Wymelenberg, law enforcement supervisor; Menasha Police Chief Lester D. Clark, and Neenah Police Chief Lawrence M. Malouf.

Barbara Steffin, Second from right, helped the Menasha blood drive along by recruiting seven of her fellow life guards at the Menasha pool to donate a pint. The bloodmobile will collect blood from donors at the Menasha Elks Club Tuesday and Wednesday. With their arms out are Peter Sorenson, Tim Tennesen, Joseph Foth, Charles Herman, Cris Van- evenhoven, Germaine Herrbold, Miss Steffin and Anne Hyde. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Contracts for Winnebago Welfare Building Urged

Project Cost Hits Total of $614,560; Exceeds Estimates

OSHKOSH — Approval of contracts totaling $562,441 for the County Welfare Department annex will be recommended to the Winnebago County Board Tuesday by its alterations and remodeling committee.

Total cost of the project, including a contingency fund and architect fees but exclusive of furnishings or equipment, has been set at $614,560. The figure is about $90,000 more than estimates.

Supv. Orrin King, vice chairman of the finance committee, said banks, which had bid on lending the county $500,000 for the project, had informally agreed to the same interest rates on a $600,000 note.

Oshkosh Bank First National Bank of Oshkosh had been low bidder on the financing at 3.75 per cent on a 10-year note with no penalty for prepayment.

The alterations and remodeling committee allowed a correction of $12,725 in the low bid of Precour Construction Co., Oshkosh, on the general construction work. The firm indicated it had failed to add one sheet of figures in its bid.

The additional amount still left Precour Construction low by about $39,000.

Atty. William Crane, representing Ben Ganther Construction Co., second low bidder, objected to the allowance of the error and indicated the possibility of legal action but said he wasn't threatening a law suit.

Base Bids High

Total base bids for all of the work total $588,000, some $108,000 higher than the estimates. However, accepting alternates to the base bids reduced the total by $25,600. The major alternate was to use Indiana Limestone instead of brick for exterior work, a reduction of $18,413.

Some committee members questioned whether all bids should be rejected and the project rebid because the bids were high. Architect Robert Yarbo said he wouldn't recommend rebidding because it would involve a delay of several months and would not guarantee the new bids would be any lower.

He said the plumbing, heating and air conditioning, electrical and elevator bids all were within estimates and that it was only the general construction work which had been high.

Yarbo indicated the general construction work bid was high because of the number of partitions and doors involved in the building. This, he said, is more expensive than a building which has relatively large expanses inside.

Auto Trade Group Optimistic About Vehicle Inspection

Assembly Rejected Mandatory Feature of Governor's Bill

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Wisconsin Automotive Trades Association, a backer of mandatory motor vehicle inspection for several decades, remains optimistic about the chances for enactment of such a state law in spite of resistance to the measure that led to a State Assembly revolt on the entire administrative safety bill recently.

The inspection bill can be passed, Manager Louis Milan of the auto dealers' group has assured his members. If the inspection requirements contemplated are refined and clarified.

He reported the State Motor Vehicle Department is now at work to simplify the standards to be proposed.

His suggestions will be submitted to auto dealers and other prospective examination stations tions to determine how much work time would be involved in such examination of the mechanical condition of automobiles, and what would be a suitable charge for such service. After such material is gathered, association directors and department officials will meet to determine what reasonable figures and other advisory matters can be submitted to the legislature, he said.

Milan complained about some legislative objections that the inspection proposal as thus far rejected by the legislature would be a "license to steal" for the inspection station proprietors.

He recalled that the federal government is recommending inspection in its guidelines for state highway safety codes.

He said his trade association is not "interested in inspection standards that are meaningless or by the same token unnecessarily tough."

Whatever standards are determined, however, must be paid for in an equitable fee that insures motorists of a good job and which gives the inspection station a just fee," he added.

'Tagging May Not Work'

Steiger Testifies Against Goose Management Proposals at Horicon

WASHINGTON — Rep. William Steiger, R-Oshkosh, has again attacked the hazing system used to disperse flocks of geese from Horicon National Wildlife Refuge last fall and stated the proposed tagging program "may not work effectively either."

Steiger, appearing before the subcommittee on Fisheries and Wildlife Conservation Thursday, called for more study to control the kill of Canadian Geese in Wisconsin.

"The range of problems runs from quota zones to food supply to flock size to whether a farm registration system would be a better method of managing the kill," he said. "What has been the pattern thus far is one which is patchwork in nature and does not work to solve the problem."

As the new law now stands, hunters will be able to shoot one goose in the Horicon area during the 37-day season and two geese in other parts of the state. Tags will not be issued to hunters for both areas.

Tagging

Steiger claimed the tagging system, similar to deer hunting tags which must be affixed to the animal, was "unacceptable" to the "vast majority" of goose hunters and landowners in the Horicon area.

He said the tagging program seemed to be the "only method" acceptable to the Department of Interior and little consideration has been given to alternative methods of effectively controlling the kill.

The Republican Congressman stated he had received assurances from the Department of Interior that the quota for Wisconsin would equal that of Illinois, although neither limit has been set yet. Last season, Illinois had a 20,000 kill quota while Wisconsin had only 14,000.

"It still seems an inequity since Wisconsin has approximately twice as many goose hunters as does Illinois," Steiger noted. "The question has never been sufficiently answered as to what portion of the flock bypasses Wisconsin and goes directly to Illinois. I would hope the Department would supply that information," he said.

Steiger also urged closer cooperation between the Department of Interior and the Wisconsin Conservation Department to solve the problem.

"The Department of the Interior should cease using threatening tactics," he said. "Cooperation will never be achieved through this manner."

Judge Appoints Attorneys for Two Indigents

Youths in Jail Pending Hearing on Armed Robbery

Two state reformatory inmates who allegedly took part in a $300 armed robbery at an Appleton service station last month, had attorneys appointed for them when they were arraigned Friday afternoon in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Clarence Storzer, 17, and Robert J. Zdiarstek, 18, both of Green Bay, had their cases continued to Tuesday afternoon.

Find Indigent

Judge Gustave J. Keller, after finding the youths indigent, named attorney John Kellogg to represent Storzer and Don Jury for Zdiarstek. The youths are alleged to have participated with Carl F. Benishek, 22, Green Bay, in the July 10 robbery of the Bulko Service Station, 1608 E. Wisconsin Ave. Benishek, who also has a court-appointed attorney, pleaded innocent of armed robbery after he was bound over to Circuit Court. His trial is Sept. 7.

Men Jailed

Judge Keller Friday ordered both Storzer and Zdiarstek held in the county jail rather than be returned to the state reformatory at Green Bay.

Storzer, who was waived from juvenile court Aug. 7, said Friday he is serving a reformatory term; until he is 21. Zdiarstek said he is in the reformatory on parole revocation and explained he originally was sentenced from Brown County court.

Legislators Advise Refusal of Waiver

Proposal Would Amend Tax Law To Aid Agricultural Land

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The uniformity of taxation rule that has been a part of the state constitution since it was written should not be waived on behalf of agricultural and undeveloped land, the legislature has been advised by its joint survey committee on tax exemptions.

The report on a measure sponsored by Assemblyman Norman Anderson of Madison, one of the leading members of the Democratic minority in the legislature, was filed by the special review committee headed by Assemblyman Franklin M. Jahnke of Green Lake County, and containing other legislators and tax specialists.

The Anderson proposal would amend the constitutional law that now provides that all real and personal property shall be taxed uniformly, except as the legislature may provide total exemptions in special cases.

Set up Classification

The disputed legislation would authorize the legislature to set up a system of classification of lands for purposes of taxation.

It would provide specific authority to classify agricultural and undeveloped lands as distinguished from others.

The committee speculated that the new method, if enacted, might be in the form of a tax credit, a lower assessment level, the postponement of taxes until such time as the land is sold for non-farm use or for development purposes, or other forms.

But it said such a classification "is not desirable as a matter of public policy" because it would lead to pressures for other classifications on behalf of other groups of landowners.

It added that such a step would be a serious deterrent to efficient tax administration, as demonstrated by other states with classified property tax systems, and might prevent the orderly development of urban areas and the land contiguous to such incorporated places.

Next meeting of the committee will be Friday, after the Red Feather board meeting, Thursday, which will set the goal for the campaign.

Reformatory Inmate Charged With Appleton Burglary

John B. Kautz, 22, formerly of Oshkosh and now an inmate at the state reformatory at Green Bay, was arraigned in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Friday afternoon on a burglary charge brought following investigation by Appleton detectives.

Judge Gustave J. Keller found Kautz indigent and appointed attorney Irving Currey at county expense. He continued the case to Tuesday afternoon and ordered Kautz held in the county jail instead of being returned to the reformatory.

Kautz, who is charged with burglarizing the Douglas LeGault home, 621 S. Outagamie St., on May 16, told the court he is serving a two year reformatory term on a oFrest County court conviction. He said he is divorced. He formerly lived at 648 Broad St., Oshkosh, according to police.

Kautz allegedly took a shotgun during the LeGault burglary.

Chilly Weather Keeps Crowds Down at Opening of State Fair

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Attendance was low, but the price of beef was way up Friday as the 117th annual Wisconsin State Fair opened its gates for a 10-day run.

Some 42,024 persons paid their way into the exposition by the time the gates closed Friday night. Fair Administrator Vernon G. Wendland blamed chilly temperatures for the 12,368 person drop from last year's opening day.

Wendland still expressed hope that the fair would surpass million mark this year for the first time, but he admitted concern over cool evenings. Last year's 10-day run drew a record 985,296 persons.

Only 2,623 persons cared to sit still long enough to take in the country-western jamboree grandstand show Friday night. Fair officials said 9,406 turned out on opening day last year for the grandstand show.

One of those who showed up at the fair was Gov. Warren Knowles, and he had a hand in boosting the price of beef to record levels.

A Black Angus steer named Mr. Terrific sold for an all-time high price of $4.76 a pound, or $4,978 at the blue ribbon beef auction. The 1,048-pound animal was the grand champion of the first day's judging and for its owner, Mrs. Gerald Stenulson of Mineral Point, it was a third consecutive grand champion. That, too, is a record.

Bidding for Mr. Terrific opened at $1 a pound and quickly rose to $3.50. Then Knowles

No Simple Problem

Scenery-Marring Junk Cars To be Early Target of Council

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The problems of automobile salvage and "the junk cars that litter the landscape" may become early targets of the newly established Wisconsin Council on Natural Beauty.

The council will hold a public discussion with public participation invited, on the issue of auto salvage and its relation to protection of the natural beauty of the Wisconsin, outdoors at the state capital on Aug. 29, says Delbert J. Cook, coordinator of the new agency. A permanent chief officer has not yet been hired.

Oswald Johnson, mayor of Black River Falls, is the chairman of the committee that has proposed a review of the auto salvage problem with respect to its public aspects.

Representatives Invited

Cook said the council is aware that the problem is not a simple one to resolve, and that therefore it has invited representatives of the scrap industry, auto wreckers groups, the body compacting business, state licensing departments, legislators and local government officials to attend the discussion session.

Matters expected to be reviewed include junk car inventory and distribution ordinances, collection points, transport, conversion procedures and costs, licensing and the role of the manufacturer, among others.

Arbitration Decision

Employee Who Hit Boss To Get Position Back

Depending on the seriousness of the provocation — there may be legitimate grounds for taking a poke at the boss.

The conclusion can be drawn from an arbitration decision ordering the City of Appleton to immediately reinstate Donald Mosher to a position in the sanitation division.

Teamsters Local 563 had filed a complaint with the city when Mosher was fired by former Public Works Director Robert W. Bues as result of an incident involving Hollis Broushard, sanitation superintendent.

The fracas took place last winter at the municipal garage.

Arbitration Board

The city and union each had a member on the arbitration board, with the third member selected by the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board (WERB).

City Atty. David Geenen, representing the city, dissented on the merits of the case.

The board's majority ruling concluded the city discharged the employee without examining all the evidence available.

"That a just disposition of alleged employee misconduct requires fair procedural as well as fair substantive standards is recognized," the panel said.

"And that the lack of fair procedural processes may later create unnecessary obstacles to the proof of the soundness of a disciplinary decision is, perhaps, more conscious now than before," the board added.

There was conflicting testimony as to whether Mosher struck Broushard first and then the latter threw a cup of coffee at him, or whether the action was just in reverse.

Geenen took the position the case was subject to arbitration but did not concur in the finding.

Mosher was ordered reinstated without loss of job seniority, but with no pay retroactivity.

It was learned Mosher has since obtained a higher paying job, but had appealed his discharge for the purpose of clearing the record.

Howard Bellman, Madison, was the WERB representative approved by the city and union. Claude Marek of the Manitowoc Teamsters Local was the union's designated board member.

Byrnes Refuses Guess on Surtax

BY FRANCES McKUSICK

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Although Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, has warned about spiraling national deficit figures since January, 1966, he won't hazard a guess as to whether the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee will approve President Johnson's suggested 10 per cent surtax increase.

"The President is facing up to the hard and inescapable facts awfully late in the game," Byrnes commented.

Byrnes, the top Republican on the influential committee, added that only time will tell just what will be done about the increase.

Opposition Gains

Washington observations show that opposition to the tax has gained momentum among both Republicans and Democrats in the Congress, and is indicated in

Mayor Gives Up in Attempts to Get Bob Hope for College Avenue Fete

Mayor George Buckley admitted defeat Friday in his attempts this past week to get in touch with a North Hollywood, Calif. contact in hopes of getting comedian Bob Hope to come to Appleton.

Hope had been invited to be the city's guest of honor at the College Avenue opening celebration. The council issued the invitation in mid-July but has not received a reply.

Earlier in the week, Merton Ehrlicke, city welfare director, received a long distance telephone call from a personal friend of Hope's business manager, who had been sent a copy of a Post-Crescent story.

Ehrlicke was told who and when to call in North Hollywood and that strings might be pulled to get Hope to come here. "We now have a good contact on a personal basis," Ehrlicke told Buckley and Aid Norman Beyer (20th), head of one of the groups arranging the celebration.

However, rather than have Ehrlicke make the long distance call, which was to be made to the North Hollywood executive at a set time, Beyer and Buckley felt the mayor should do the honors.

Buckley said he placed calls on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, reporting at one time he had Hope's representative on the line but they were cut off and the operator couldn't re-store contact.

'Forget It'

"It probably would have cost $7,000 or $8,000 to get him (Hope) here anyway," Buckley said Friday afternoon. "We can forget about it."

Celebration planners had hoped to get a national celebrity to come here for the avenue dedication but city officials have been unsuccessful in their efforts.

Hope was invited after it was recalled he mentioned on a nationwide TV interview last fall that he would never come to Appleton, or even fly over.

Tavern Agent Fined $100

Flagstone Employee Tells Court He Plans to 'Pull Out'

A 44-year-old Menasha man who told the court he intends to "pull out" as agent for the corporation that operates the Flagstone Bar in the Town of Grand Chute, was fined $100 and costs or 48 days in jail Friday afternoon when he pleaded guilty of two tavern charges brought following investigation by the Outagamie County Sheriff's Department.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller fined William H. Dill, 1014 Oneida Road, $50 each on charges of permitting an unlicensed bartender at The Flagstone and failure properly to display retail beer and liquor licenses at the tavern at 2820 W. Prospect Ave.

Offenses Occurred Monday

A sheriff's investigator told the court the offenses occurred Monday. Grant Hottensine, 42, 2009 N. Erb St., earlier this week was fined $50 and costs after he pleaded guilty of tending bar without a license at The Flagstone.

Dill is agent for S and J Corp. which operates The Flagstone.

Sheriff Norbert Marx told the court that his office has received "several complaints" about The Flagstone. Marx did not elaborate.

Discussion Slated for Wednesday

Some of Mayor George Buckley's intended appointments to Appleton's first housing authority may find the going rough in getting common council confirmation Wednesday night.

Word of Buckley's prospective appointments leaked out earlier in the week, along with the fact that the mayor had decided to drop City Atty. David Geenen from his list of appointees.

Buckley announced a few weeks ago he wanted Geenen to serve on the authority and the city attorney had indicated he would accept because of his interest in the problems of the elderly.

Buckley Inconsistent

"I decided to drop Geenen's name because I don't want any elected official on the Housing Authority," Buckley said when questioned about reports he was attempting to scuttle the overall program.

However, the mayor admitted he has agreed to appoint Ald. William Wachtendonk (3rd) to the authority although the elected official, as a member of the welfare ordinance committee, consistently voted against creating a Housing Authority. He wanted a study to be made first to see if housing was needed.

"I talked the appointment over with Wachtendonk and he told me he had an open mind on the subject and would do his best," Buckley said. "That is all I can ask, and I take him at his word."

Geenen said he had heard about the mayor's change in thinking on authority appointments. "To tell you the truth, I have been too busy working to get approval of Appleton's water grant and other city business to give it thought," Geenen commented.

Raise Questions

However, a half dozen aldermen told a reporter during the course of the day they heard about some of the appointees and intended to "raise serious questions about them" on the council floor next week.

Another development came in the form of a letter from the president of Chapter 287 of the East Central Wisconsin Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons.

John S. Oliver, Appleton, wrote Mayor Buckley his group was hopeful someone representing the community's senior citizens would be asked to serve on the Housing Authority.

"When appointing the committee on low rental housing for older citizens, have you considered a committee member who will represent the people vitally concerned — namely the older citizens?" Oliver asked Buckley.

Seniors Watch

"There are several organizations in Appleton whose members are watching how this project is being handled, and who feel they should be represented on this committee," Oliver concluded.

Buckley's reaction was, "I don't want anybody that is prejudiced for or against Appleton undertaking a low rental housing project for the elderly."

The purpose of a housing authority is to make a determination whether low income housing is needed for the elderly, and guide the program, as a separate agency with actions confirmed by the city council.

Several communities in the Fox Valley region already have constructed high-rise, low rental apartments for senior citizens, or are in the process of applying for federal grants to do so.

The first assignment of the Housing Authority will be to study the housing needs of senior citizens here and determine whether a building project is necessary.
